This Week—

By M.I.N.I.

At the Navy Department this week, the question was asked whether history would not repeat itself in the matter of the Chieftancy of the Bureau of Operations. Admiral Pratt was appointed to the office he holds following upon his service as naval adviser of the American Delegation to the London Disarmament Conference. The present disarmament naval adviser is Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, whose last sea service was commander of the Submarine Force of the United States Fleet. Admiral Pratt's appointment, however, was consequent upon the success which attended the London negotiations. The Geneva Conference may last indefinitely, and thus require the continuous service of Admiral Hepburn. The gossip I hear in connection with the succession of Admiral Pratt centers about the name of Vice Admiral William H. Standley, commander cruisers, Scouting Force. He would be an admirable choice for the head of the Operations Bureau.

Arthur Krock, the able political correspondent of the New York Times, writes from Portland, Oregon, that "the reelection of General J. C. H. Martin as Portland's representative in Congress is generally conceded." This is good news for the Army and for National Defense generally. General Martin proved a tower of strength in the last session, laboring in and out of the House of Representatives to prevent any reduction in the commissioned strength of the land force. His speeches especially were effective, for they expressed the views of a man who knew what he was talking about. It is to be hoped that General Martin in the next Congress will be transferred to the Appropriations Committee.

The American representative on the League of Nations Commission which negotiated the agreement transferring control of Liberia to the League was Samuel Reber, jr., son of Colonel Samuel Reber, USA-ret., and Mrs. Reber, who was the daughter of General Nelson A. Miles. Mr. Reber entered the diplomatic service some years ago, and, distinguishing himself by his aptitude was transferred to Geneva and given charge of the Liberian question. He displayed tact and skill in carrying out the instructions of the Government, and at last joined in the agreement reported in the daily press. The youthful diplomat is receiving many compliments upon the way in which he handled the difficult phases of the negotiations.

President Hoover will not permit complete withdrawal of the United States Marines from Haiti before May 1936. The Haitian Congress rejected the Treaty negotiated between the two countries because of its provisions relative to the control of the Garde, insisting that the Marines should be withdrawn promptly, and that Haitianization of the organization should take place without delay. The Haitian Congress is further concerned

National Defense as it May be Affected by the Presidential Election

The welfare and security of the American people are seriously involved in the policies of the major political parties with reference to National Defense, as well as in the attitude towards that subject by the respective nominees for the Presidency. Here is what the platforms have to say:

Republican

"Armaments are relative and therefore flexible and subject to change as necessity demands. We believe that in time of war every material resource in the Nation should bear its proportionate share of the burden occasioned by the public need, and that it is the duty of the Government to perfect plans in time of peace whereby this objective may be attained in time of war. We support the essential principles of the National Defense Act, as amended in 1920, and by the Air Corps Act of 1926, and believe that the Army of the United States has, through successive reductions, accomplished in the last twelve years, reached the irreducible minimum consistent with self-reliance, self-respect, and security of this country."

Regarding National Defense an examination of the acceptance speeches of the candidates discloses:

Hoover

"I insist upon an Army and a Navy of a strength which guarantees that no foreign soldier will land on American soil. That strength is relative to other Nations. I favor every arms reduction which preserves that relationship."

In his first campaign speech, Mr. Roosevelt described the democratic platform as "honest to the core", and he endorsed it "100%." Under date of July 5, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL wrote to Mr. Roosevelt asking him for specific answers to the following:

1. Do you favor a Regular Army of the present size; that is to say 12,000 officers and 118,500 men?
2. Do you favor an Air Corps as proposed by the Act of 1926?
3. Do you favor a Navy equal to that of any other Nation and built up to the limits fixed by Treaty?
4. Do you favor a separate War and Navy Department, or do you favor a single Department of National Defense?

To the above, Mr. Roosevelt replied, under date of August 26:

"As to the matter of national defense, it is sufficient to say that, having served eight years as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, I am familiar with the problems and that I believe in adequate defense." Mr. Roosevelt also promised "a study further into the details of the various branches of the Service" should he be elected.

Subsequently, Mr. Roosevelt was reported in the public press as having stated: "I am for adequate National Defense and shall make a statement in detail later."

To date the Democratic candidate has not made the detailed statement he promised. He has confined himself merely to the following extract contained in a speech at Los Angeles:

"And I don't need to tell you as a former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, that I thoroughly understand the great value of an adequate Navy toward commerce, not only in times of war, but in times of peace."

President Hoover, on numerous occasions, has clearly defined his position on the subject:

For example, on October 6th, 1928 (before his election), he stated:

"We must maintain our Army and our Navy in such fashion that we shall have complete defense of our homes from even the fear of foreign invasion."

"Our foreign policies must be ever directed to the cause of peace that we never again need sacrifice our sons on the field of battle."

In his inauguration address, on March 4th, 1929, he stated:

"Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitations of armaments and by the creation of instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies."

At Arlington, on Decoration Day, 1929, he stated:

"To make ready for defense is a primary obligation upon every statesman, and adequate preparedness is an assurance against aggression."

On April 14th, 1930, addressing the D. A. R., he stated:

"Because of my abhorrence of war let no one mistake my position, however. There is a price which no nation can afford to pay for peace."

And, on October 6th, 1930, at Boston, he stated:

"The maintenance of respect requires that we sustain a preparedness for defense that is impregnable, yet that contains no threat of aggression."

"One primary obligation of citizenship is national defense."

There are many more extracts from President Hoover's speeches along the same lines that could be quoted.

Friends of National Defense should insist that Mr. Roosevelt as well as every other candidate for office set forth explicitly his stand on this vital question. Not only the Presidential candidates, but those for State offices and for Congress should be required to express their convictions.

To date, the Republican stand is distinctly in favor of National Defense. The Democrats, on the other hand, if bound by their platform, plan a sweeping cut, and Mr. Roosevelt, in view of his 100% approval of the platform of his party, must, in case of election, immediately make the survey therein promised and which he suggested he would do in his letter to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. He might go so far as to appoint Army and Navy Representatives to make the survey. Again, he might not. Speculation would indicate that he would be forced to listen to Garner, Collins and other destroyers of National Defense. The matter is so serious that advocates of American security should insist that he clarify his attitude.

Democratic

"A Navy and an Army adequate for National Defense, based on a survey of all facts affecting the existing establishments, that the people of the United States in time of peace may not be burdened by an expenditure fast approaching $1,000,000,000 annually."

(N. B. — The figure given for Navy and Army expenditures is an exaggeration of about 35%.)

Navy Approves Policy on Provisional Ensigns

Navy General Order No. 229, establishing a system for provisional ensigns was signed by Secretary Adams yesterday.

The order quotes first the act establishing the provisional ensign system. It then goes on as follows:

a. In the case of officers serving under revocable commissions as provided in the act of Congress approved May 6, 1932, the Secretary of the Navy may revoke the commission of any officer whose conduct or performance of duty is such as not to justify his retention as an officer of the Navy; or who failed in the examinations which are to be held prior to the expiration of the two year period of such commissioned service; or whose retention as an officer of the Navy is not justified for other good and sufficient reasons appearing to the satisfaction to the Secretary of the Navy.

b. In case any officer who may hereafter be commissioned in the Navy or Marine Corps marries during the period that he is serving under a revocable commission as provided by the term of the act cited above, such marriage will be considered cause for the revocation of his commission.

c. In case the revocation of an officer's commission is recommended by his commanding officer or higher authorities, such recommendation shall be accompanied by a complete statement of facts together with such statement as the officer (Please turn to Page 139)

Interview Senator Reed

Senator David A. Reed, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, declared yesterday that there is not a chance for any Army promotion legislation at the next session of Congress.

"I can't see, that there is a chance for promotion next session," the Senator told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, "any bill that is worth anything at all would cost money and that is impossible at the present time. I think it would be a mistake to try to put through a sham bill which would not remedy conditions. It is better to wait."

Asked for his view as to the possibility of a proposal revising the Army promotion list being enacted, Senator Reed replied that he does not believe it would get very far. He said that he will oppose the measure which Representative John J. McSwain, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, has declared his intention of introducing.

"I feel it my duty to fight against this proposal," the Senator declared.

Although he is of the opinion that a determined effort will be made next winter to reduce personnel in the Army, the Pennsylvanian feels that the movement can be defeated.

"Both the Army and Navy have already been cut too far in the desire to economize," he said. "I expect to see a very strong attempt to cut the officer personnel as was tried last year, and I also believe that a reduction in the enlisted strength will be sought. This would be disastrous, and I am confident Congress will reject such a proposal."

American Newspaper Editors Comment Upon Findings of Manchurian Report

While few editors are agreed in their interpretation of the report upon conditions in Manchuria, submitted to League of Nations by the Lytton Commission, they are as one in praising it as unbiased, accurate, and extremely valuable. Many see it as dangerous, as likely to provoke a crisis, when the League has to act upon the findings, while others regard the document as auguring an early settlement of the Sino-Japanese trouble, by providing the Japanese Government with an "out."

Under the caption "The World Takes It Seriously," the New York Herald-Tribune comments: "Whatever becomes of its suggestions there can be no doubt that its findings can never be set aside. It is in no quarter taken lightly. . . . The conservative British press gives the Lytton commission the credit which it deserves for a fine piece of work, while viewing the likely results of it with some anxiety. The French press finds it sensible in its observations, but thinks its suggestions practically inapplicable. Japan releases the chorus of resentful denial of all charges which she has been rehearsing, preforce, ever since she recognized Manchukuo; and China shows her first signs of displeasure with a document which fails to depict her as the innocent victim of Japanese rapacity."

"If Japan, as seems at this moment likely, refuses the recommendations," states the Chicago Tribune, "it will then be impossible for the league to avoid action to enforce them unless it is ready to take its agents' findings in the Picwickian sense and confine itself to diplomatic protest. Against a recalcitrant Japan, pressure to have any respectable effect must be either by means of military force, which is an unlikely resort, or by economic measures, such as a declaration of nonintercourse or trade embargo."

"In any case the situation is one of the most serious developed in international relations since 1914."

"Two questions have been eagerly asked," the New York Times says, "Would the Lytton report place all the blame for the Manchurian troubles upon Japan? And would it call upon the League of Nations to refuse to recognize the territorial acquisitions which had resulted from the success of Japanese arms? In fact, it does neither. . . . The obvious intent of the commission has been to do something healing for that wounded and bleeding part of the world."

"There is ground for belief," states the Philadelphia Public Ledger, "in spite of the truculent position assumed by the militarists, that thoughtful Japanese view the Lytton report as the way out of a bad tangle."

"Of course," says the Baltimore Sun, in an editorial entitled "Coroner's Report," "There will be loud howling in Tokyo, and Japan may even quit Geneva under the bad advice of her present guides. But whatever comes from this trying dispute, it is obvious that the Lytton commission's report has amply demonstrated the usefulness of one aspect of the League's service. For the first time we have a careful and thorough investigation of the conduct of a great power and a finding against that great power's aggression. This may not seem tremendously promising at the moment, but it is certain to bear fruit, if the League is as courageous as the commission has been faithful to its instructions."

"The issue is clearly drawn between the maintenance of an equality of nations in the east and a Japanese hegemony," declares the Boston Herald. "The report of the league's commission supports America's stand on the non-recognition of territorial gains made by the use of arms. The question is now whether the league, which means France and Great Britain, will support the findings of its commission. Failure to do so will be tacit admission that Japan, and nobody else, rules the Orient."

Comments the Washington News (Scripps-Howard): "The report of the League's special commission on Manchuria upholds Chinese sovereignty in that territory conquered by Japan and stands by the League Covenant, the Kellogg Pact and the Nine-Power Treaty. It confirms, in effect, the policy of the United States in outlawing the fruits of conquest. In effect it puts on the spot Great Britain and France, who have supported Japan diplomatically and thus evaded their responsibility under the treaties and the Covenant. No one can doubt the damning facts against Japan set forth in this report by the five distinguished and experienced neutrals who signed it."

New Air Corps Non-Com Policy

Promotion to the grades of master and technical sergeant in the Air Corps will be on the basis of seniority after Jan. 1, 1933, it is announced. The present eligible lists made up by examination, will be discontinued on that date.

Changes in Army Regulations issued this week remove the Air Corps from the list of branches which promote by examination and place it under the same general arrangement as is prescribed for the Corps of Engineers and Ordnance Department. In accordance with an Air Corps circular, which is now going out to the service, promotion lists will be made up on the basis of relative seniority in the Army of men with the prescribed amount of service in the Air Corps and who have been recommended for promotion by their commanding officer.

The text of the circular, No. 25-2, follows:

(This Circular supercedes Air Corps Circular 35-2, dated May 14, 1924.)

1. GENERAL.

a. Pursuant to authority contained in Army Regulations 615-5, War Department, June 6, 1931, as amended by Change No. 1, War Department, Sept. 15, 1932, the following regulations will govern in the appointment and reduction of Master Sergeants and Technical Sergeants, Air Corps.

b. Appointments. Appointments to the grades of Master Sergeant and Technical Sergeant will be made only by the Chief of the Air Corps.

c. Reductions. Master Sergeants and Technical Sergeants may be reduced to the ranks as provided in Section 2, Army Regulations 615-5, War Department, June 6, 1931.

2. Promotion to the grade of Master Sergeant.

a. Eligibility. Technical and First Sergeants only, who have completed a minimum of five (5) years of total service in the second or higher grade in the Air Corps, are basically eligible for promotion to the grade of Master Sergeant.

b. Promotion List. A list for the promotion of eligibles will be maintained in the Office of the Chief of the Air Corps. A new list will be prepared annually as hereinafter provided. This list will contain the names of all enlisted men who are basically eligible (see preceding sub-paragraph) and who have been recommended and certified as provided in sub-paragraphs c. and f. infra, as qualified to perform the duties of a Master Sergeant.

c. Seniority on the Promotion List. Relative seniority on the list will be based on the total amount of service in the U. S. Army of each eligible, as certified by the recommending officer.

d.—Method of Promotion:

(1) Normally promotion will be in order of seniority on the list after being recommender for the promotion by a Board of Officers convened in the Office of the Chief of the Air Corps for that purpose.

(2) Exception to promotion by seniority may be made, when, in the opinion of the Board, the records indicate the senior eligible is not fully qualified, or has failed to take advantage of opportunities to qualify himself for the duties of the next higher grade and such finding by that Board has been approved by the Chief of the Air Corps.

e. Who may recommend. Recommendations may be submitted, through Air Corps station commanders, by:

(1) Unit commanders for personnel assigned to and on duty with their organizations.

(2) Detachment commanders for personnel assigned to and on duty with their organizations.

(3) Air Corps station commanders for personnel on special duty not covered by (1) or (2).

f. Recommendations. Recommendations will be submitted on the form prescribed by the Chief of the Air Corps for this purpose. All data required thereon will be filled out and the service reported will be carefully computed from the official service records of the nominee. Since the efficiency of the Air Corps is to a large degree dependent on the integrity, ability, and initiative of its higher ranking non-commissioned officers, recommending officers should devote thoughtful consideration to their annual recommendations, and should limit them to those enlisted men whom they consider to be in all respects properly qualified to perform the duties of a non-commissioned officer with the rank of Master Sergeant.

g. Opportunity to qualify. Commanding Officers will give opportunity during the five year period required to establish eligibility, for non-commissioned officers to enlarge upon their experience, in order that when they arrive at the time for promotion they will have broadened their experience along all lines. Administrative non-commissioned officers should, during that period, be given the opportunity of becoming familiar with the technical duties and specialties of which Master Sergeants are usually to be found in charge.

3. Promotion to the grade of Technical Sergeant.

a. Eligibility. Staff Sergeants, only, who have completed a minimum of five (5) years of total service in the third or higher grade, Air Corps, are basically (Please turn to Page 139)

The Lytton Report

(Because of the importance of the subject and in response to a large number of requests for details of the report of the Lytton Commission, of which Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, USA, was a member, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL will print from week to week the various sections of that document. This week's is from the first chapter of the report "Outline of recent developments in China" and tells of the communistic activities in China.)

Large parts of the provinces of Fukien and Kiangsi, and parts of Kwangtung, are reliably reported to be completely sovietized. Communist zones of influence are far more extensive. They cover a large part of China south of the Yangtze, and parts of the provinces of Hupeh, Anhwei, and Kiangsu north of that river. Shanghai has been the centre of communist propaganda. Individual sympathisers with communism may probably be found in every town in China. So far two provincial communist governments only have been organized in Kiangsi and Fukien, but the number of minor soviets runs into hundreds. The communist government itself is formed by a committee elected by a congress of local workers and peasants. It is, in reality, controlled by representatives of the Chinese Communist Party, which sends out trained men for that purpose, a large number of whom have been previously trained in the U. S. S. R. Regional Committees, under the control of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party, in their turn control provincial committees and these, again, district committees, and so on, down to the communist cells organized in factories, schools, military barracks, etc.

Methods Employed by Communists

When a district has been occupied by a Red Army, efforts are made to sovietize it, if the occupation appears to be of a more or less permanent nature. Any opposition from the population is suppressed by terrorism. A communist government, as described above, is then established. The complete organization of such governments comprises: Commissariats for Internal Affairs, for the struggle against the anti-revolutionaries (G. P. U.), for Financial Affairs, for Rural Economy, for Education, for Hygiene, for Post and Telegraph, for Communications; and Committees for Military Affairs and for the control of workmen and peasants. Such elaborate government organizations exist only in completely sovietized districts. Elsewhere the organization is more modest.

The programme of action consists in the cancellation of debts, the distribution among landless proletarians and small farmers of land forcibly seized, either from large private owners or from religious institutions, such as temples, monasteries and churches. Taxation is simplified; the peasants have to contribute a certain part of the produce of their lands. With a view to the improvement of agriculture, steps are taken to develop irrigation, rural credit systems, and cooperatives. Public schools, hospitals and dispensaries may also be established.

Thus the poorest farmers derive considerable benefit from communism, whereas the rich and middle-class landowners, merchants and local gentry are completely ruined, either by immediate expropriation or by levies and fines; and in applying its agrarian programme the Communist Party expects to gain the support of the masses. In this respect, its propaganda and action have met with considerable success, notwithstanding the fact that communist theory conflicts with the Chinese social system. Existing grievances resulting from oppressive taxation, extortion, usury and pillage by soldiery or bandits, were fully exploited. Special slogans were employed for farmers, workmen, soldiers and intellectuals, with variations especially adapted to women.

Special Character of Communism

Communism in China not only means, as in most countries other than the U. S. S. R., either a political doctrine held by certain members of existing parties, or the organization of a special party to compete for power with other political parties. It has become an actual rival of the National Government. It possesses its own law, army and government, and its own territorial sphere of action. For this state of affairs there is no parallel in any other country. Moreover, in China the disturbance created by the communist war is made more serious by the fact that the country is going through a critical period of internal reconstruction, still further complicated during the last eleven months by an external crisis of exceptional gravity. The National Government seems to be determined to regain the control of the districts under communist influence, and to pursue in these districts, once their recovery is achieved, a policy of economic rehabilitation; but in its military campaigns, apart from difficulties already mentioned, both internal and external, which weaken its position, it is hampered by lack of funds and defective communications. The problem of communism in China is thus linked with the larger problem of national reconstruction.

In the summer of 1932 important military operations, having for their object a final suppression of the Red resistance, were announced by the Government of Nanking. They were commenced, and, as stated above, were to have been accompanied by a thorough social and administrative reorganization of the recaptured regions. But up to the present no important results have been announced.

Effect on Sino-Japanese Relations

So far as Japan is China's nearest neighbor and largest customer, she has suffered more than any other Power from the lawless conditions described in this chapter. Over two-thirds of the foreign residents in China are Japanese, and the number of Koreans in Manchuria is estimated at about 800,000. She has more nationals, therefore, than any other Power, who would suffer if they were made amenable to Chinese law, justice and taxation under present conditions.

Japan felt it impossible to satisfy Chinese aspirations so long as satisfactory safeguards to take the place of her Treaty rights could not be hoped for. Her interests in China, and more especially in Manchuria, began to be more prominently asserted as those of the other major Powers receded into the background. Japan's anxiety to safeguard the life and property of her subjects in China caused her to intervene repeatedly in times of civil war or of local disturbances. Such action was bitterly resented by China, especially when it resulted in an armed clash such as occurred in 1928 at Tsinan. In recent years the claims of Japan have come to be regarded in China as constituting a more serious challenge to national aspirations than the rights of all the other Powers taken together.

International Interest

This issue, however, though affecting Japan to a greater extent than other Powers, is not a Sino-Japanese issue alone. China demands immediately the surrender of certain exceptional powers and privileges because they are felt to be derogatory to her national dignity and sovereignty. The foreign Powers have hesitated to meet these wishes as long as conditions in China did not ensure adequate protection of their national, whose interests depend on the security afforded by the enjoyment of special Treaty rights. The process of fermentation, inevitable in a period of transition, which this chapter has attempted to describe, has developed forces of public opinion which will probably continue to embarrass the Central Government in the conduct of their foreign policy, as long as they are weakened by failure to complete the unification and reconstruction of the country. The realization of China's national aspirations in the field of foreign relations depends on her ability to discharge the functions of a modern government in the sphere of domestic affairs, and until the discrepancy between these has been removed, the danger of international friction and of incidents, boycotts, and armed interventions will continue.

(To be continued next week.)

"Washington" Approves Army Post Buildings Insulated like refrigerator cars

10° to 15° Cooler in Summer—Use 25% to 50% Less Fuel in Winter

Even present quarters can be "Insulated" at low cost out of maintenance budget

OFFICERS and enlisted men, in post buildings now being constructed, will be cool as the north woods in summer—snug and cozy in winter, with 1/2 of the usual fuel bill saved for other service needs.

Post Quartermasters in many cases are empowered to remodel present quarters, barracks, theaters, any post buildings, by lining them with Insulite insulating board, and amortize the cost in a few years by savings on fuel.

Thirty-five per cent of the heat in the average building escapes by radiating through the roof. Insulite roof insulation installed on the roof deck, under the roofing, stops the biggest part of this loss. Ordinary walls and roofs that are NOT insulated readily conduct the furnace heat OUT and the summer heat IN.

In new construction Insulite permits reduced radiation areas. Insulite Sheathing Board costs little more put up than ordinary sheathing, provides greater bracing strength, deadens sound, and insulates the building in the bargain. Insulite Lok-Joint Lath, used instead of open-spaced lath, grips plaster twice as firmly, and is 28% to 60% more rigid at the joints than ordinary insulating lath boards.

Insulite Building Board in rooms not plastered, lends itself to pleasing wall treatment due to its light, creamy-colored bur-lap finish. Garages lined with Insulite Fire-proofed Board keep warm by heat of the cars alone, in all but extreme temperatures. Insulite Termite Board combines with all these advantages protection against the ravages of termites and other vermin.

Don't confuse insulating board with wall board, or ordinary insulating board with Insulite. Insulite is made of clean raw-wood fibers—by a cold-press process. Unlike other insulating boards, none of the natural gum, toughness or life is cooked out. Insulite is U. S. Government-tested for insulating efficiency.

Any leading lumber dealer can supply Insulite. Your Post Quartermaster may be able to give you Insulite comfort in your present quarters.

Lieutenant Goodwyn Honored

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Lt. Allen A. Goodwyn, 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment, has received notification from the Virginia Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of his selection as one of the two recipients of the Cross of Military Service, which the society awarded for 1932.

Awards of the medal are made only to descendants of Confederate veterans to commemorate the loyal services of Confederate soldiers and sailors. Lieutenant Goodwyn was selected for the honor because of the service of his great-grandfather, Edward A. Goodwyn, and his grand-father, Matthew P. Goodwyn, in the cause of the Confederacy, and also because of his own service in the World War.

Lieutenant Goodwyn's great-grand-father entered the Confederate service at the beginning of the Civil war as a lieutenant of cavalry, and later he became a captain in the 13th Virginia Cavalry, known as "The Cockade Cavalry". Captain Goodwyn's son, Lieutenant Goodwyn's grandfather, was a midshipman in the United States Naval Academy, from which he resigned in February, 1861, to enter the Confederate upon its organization a few months later. He was a participant in the battle between the "Monitor" and the "Merri-mac".

Awards of Soldier's Medal

Announcement is made of the award of the Soldier's Medal to Pablo Marquez, private, first class, Battery C, 92nd Coast Artillery (Philippine Scouts), United States Army, and to Dalmacio Perras, private, first class, Battery C, 92nd Coast Artillery (Philippine Scouts), United States Army.

The citations read as follows:

"Pablo Marquez, private, first class, Battery C, 92nd Coast Artillery (Philippine Scouts), United States Army. For heroism in rescuing Sergeant Angel Dingal, Battery C, 92nd Coast Artillery (Philippine Scouts), from drowning near Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands, February 8, 1932. While under the water engaged in emptying battery fish traps located about 150 yards off shore, Sergeant Dingal was assailed and mortally wounded by sharks. Private Marquez, observing the attack from a nearby banca, with complete disregard of his own safety, dove from the banca into the water and, with the assistance of another private of his battery, rescued Sergeant Dingal from the attacking sharks and brought him to shore."

Commends 31st U.S. Inf.

Manila—Col. Lorenzo D. Ganser, Inf. USA, commanding the 31st Infantry, has received the following letter from Hon. Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister to China:

"I should have written to you some time ago to express to you and through you to the officers and men of your command my appreciation of the gallant and loyal way in which they performed, under conditions that were most trying and difficult, the arduous duties that were required of them in Shanghai. It was specially pleasing to me as an American citizen to meet and know you and the members of your command and through them to become acquainted once more with the high standards set by the commissioned and enlisted personnel of our Army."

Sixth Corps Area Notes

Chicago—Maj. Gen. Frank Parker has received the following letter from the acting chief of staff, Maj. Gen. George van Horn Moseley. The letter deals with the highly successful command post exercise for the training of higher commanders in the Sixth Corps Area, conducted by General Parker at Camp Custer, Mich. last May.

My dear General Parker:

The report of your Command Post Exercise has been received in the War Department. A study of it shows very clearly that the successful accomplishment of this highly important training exercise was due to the outstanding degree of leadership displayed by you in planning and executing the many problems involved, and to the excellent team work of your staff and your subordinates in the Regular Army, National Guard, and Reserve.

The Secretary of War desires to express to you and to the officers and men of the Army of the United States associated with you, his thanks and sincere appreciation of the excellent manner in which this exercise was conducted.

It is desired, if practicable, to have a copy of your report sent to the Commanding General of each Corps Area for his information in planning future exercises of this nature.

Sincerely yours,

Geo. Van Horn Moseley,

Major General

Acting Chief of Staff.

General Parker received the gold medal of the George Washington Distinguished Service Order, at a ceremony held in Grant Park, Chicago, Saturday afternoon, October 8, which included an inspection and review of reserve officers of Chicago and vicinity. Presentation of the medal was made by Col. Trygve Siqueland, Cav.-res., chairman of the Chicago Bicentennial Commission. The medal was awarded General Parker for outstanding service in connection with the Washington Bicentennial celebration.

Conducting a combined aviation training and equipment test flight, a formation of six Berlinger Joyce (P-16) two-seater Pursuit planes of the 94th Pursuit Squadron, 1st Pursuit group, Selfridge Field, Michigan recently completed a flight to and from the West Coast. Capt. A. B. Ballard commanded the flight. The other pilots were Lieutenants O'Donnell, Warburton, Tellman, McCoy, and Blanchard.

Speaks at QM School

Capt. Ezra Davis, QMC, gave a practical talk on "The Functions of the Procurement Division and the Storage and Distribution Division, Office of The Quartermaster General," at The Quartermaster Corps School, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11. Captain Davis, now on duty in the Office of The Quartermaster General, was formerly a member of the faculty of the school.

An illustrated lecture on "New Developments in the Organization and Equipment of the Infantry" was delivered at the school, Oct. 13, by Lt. Col. James M. Churchill, Inf., of the Office of the Chief of Infantry.

Tell your friends to subscribe to the Army and Navy Journal and keep in touch with the service personnel.

Post Exchange Investigation

During the course of the investigation which Representative Shannon, of Missouri, held of the activities of the Post Exchange at Ft. Sill, Okla., an important question arose which Lt. Col. L. J. McNair, acting commandant at the time, answered in a letter to Mr. Shannon as follows:

My dear Mr. Shannon:

In connection with the testimony before you yesterday by Master Sergeant Swett, you asked the witness a question, which, in substance, was somewhat as follows:

"During the past six months, this exchange (Fort Sill) did something like $200,000 worth of business, at a profit of about $8,000. This is a very small profit on so large a volume of business. Would it not be better that the Government appropriate $8,000, or even more, to be expended for the welfare of the soldiers, and release the business to the local merchants, who are being destroyed for want of it?"

While Sergeant Swett did not agree with this proposition, he gave an incomplete reply. I should have asked to speak, had I not realized that you then were overdue in Lawton. The question is fundamental, and is the crux of the present controversy with reference to post exchanges. I assume that you asked the question seriously, and not merely to draw out the witness. I feel that your comprehensive investigation would be incomplete without a more detailed and definite reply to this important question.

Let us assume that the business in question had been handled by the merchants in Lawton, instead of by the Post Exchange. As you stated, the actual profit was very small. From my experience, I am sure that it was much smaller than would have satisfied the merchants of Lawton. Let us say that the profit would have been $30,000, instead of $8,000. The added profit under your proposal, $22,000, would have been contributed by the officers and soldiers; and they would have been compelled to go to Lawton to contribute it, or most of it, a distance of 6 miles each way.

It was just such situations which, in the past, brought about cooperative buying in the Army; it was a necessary defense against exploitation by local merchants. Fort Sill, at one time, had a post trader's store, operated on the Post by a civilian. He became one of the wealthiest, if not the wealthiest, man in Lawton.

The Government buys its labor, including its soldiers in peace, in the open market. It is able to obtain fine material at far below market rates, because the soldier finds, under the conditions, that he can do and have things which would require a considerably higher wage scale in civil life. The Post Exchange, while costing the Government nothing, is a definite factor in enabling the Government to procure its military personnel at low wages. This fact effects a tangible saving to the taxpayers of the entire country.

If the business were given to the local merchants, the taxpayers would be assessed $8,000, or some such sum to cover the welfare activities. Assuming that the present standards of living of the soldier were maintained, which you indicated should be done, the taxpayers would be assessed an additional $22,000, to cover the remainder of the profits accruing only to the local merchants.

Based on the steady retrenchment in military appropriations during the past several years, I doubt that the taxpayers over the country would consent with grace even to the $8,000 added burden. But I feel sure that the additional $22,000 would cause a storm, since the benefits would accrue only to a small group of local merchants.

Another related aspect. The resident of Lawton is here because he chooses to be, or because he derives his livelihood from the local community. If he does not like conditions, he moves elsewhere. The soldier is not here by choice, but because he is sent here by the country which he is serving. In all fairness, he owes no more loyalty to Lawton than to any other community in the country. The Army is a national institution, not the possession by right of the local communities which happen to adjoin its posts. It is to be remembered that our Army is not distributed uniformly over the country, but is segregated in relatively few communities, many of them small and isolated. Is it not then fairer to distribute the buying power of the Army, so far as possible, over the country, rather than concentrate it out of all proportion in a few places?

Still another aspect. In the early days, the temptations of the nearby towns were a menace to the welfare of young soldiers. Nearly all of their troubles came from escapades while "on pass." Conditions have been improved steadily by offering inducements for soldiers to remain on the Post. To proceed on the lines of your question would mean a

"How do YOU LIKE YOUR CAR?"

A few months ago, a certain star salesman in St. Louis found himself confronted with an important personal problem . . .

For fifteen years he had been selling motor cars in the same city. During that period he had worked for only two organizations. He had been successful. But the time had come when he realized the need of a more popular product to sell—one which he could conscientiously recommend to his large clientele.

Accordingly, he selected from state records the names of three hundred automobile owners—fifty for each one of six popular cars. He called these people by telephone . . . inquiring of each one how well he liked his car. Did its performance please him? Was it economical? Was it dependable? Was it giving 100% satisfaction?

The investigation took a month to complete. But it brought out the facts he wanted to know. One car stood out above all by the test of owner experience. That car was Oldsmobile.

The fifty Oldsmobile owners, to quote from the salesman's own notes, "were almost 100% in stating that if they were to buy new cars tomorrow, their choice would be Oldsmobile. This car's rating in owner satisfaction is nearly perfect."

To the actual facts as told by this salesman—who today is an enthusiastic member of the Oldsmobile organization—we desire to add nothing. We do suggest, however, that you talk to owners yourself. They will tell you how much it really means to own a car like Oldsmobile . . . designed and built and sold to give enduring satisfaction.

Naval Officers Commended

The President of the United States has sent a letter of commendation to Rear Adm. Clark H. Woodward, USN, Commander of the Light Cruiser Division Three of the Battle Force, which attained the highest merit in Battle Efficiency of the Light Cruiser Divisions, during the past competition year, 1931-1932.

The Secretary of the Navy has commended the following officers for the high standing merited during the past competition year, 1931-1932, in battle efficiency or engineering by the division of the fleet or the ships to which they were attached:

Capt. H. G. S. Wallace, USN, Captain of the Yard, Navy Yard, Puget Sound, Washington, for his service during 1931-1932 as commanding officer of the USS Milwaukee of Light Cruiser Division Three, Battle Force, which had the highest standing in Battle Efficiency of any Light Cruiser Division.

Lt. Comdr. Albert G. Noble, USN, Flag Secretary of the Commander Light Cruiser Division Three, Battle Force.

Capt. George H. Bowdye, USN, Chief of Staff of Commander, Base Force, for his service from July 1, 1931, to January 30, 1932, in command of the USS Sacramento, gunboat, Asiatic Fleet, which had the greatest improvement in merit in Engineering in the Patrol Class.

Comdr. Homer H. Norton, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS Sacramento, who reported for that duty on January 30, 1932.

Lt. Duncan Curry, Jr., USN, aide to the Commandant, Puget Sound, Navy Yard, Washington, for his service as engineer officer of the Sacramento from July 1, 1931, to January 28, 1932.

Lt. Frederick J. Silvernail, USN, who on January 28, 1932, succeeded Lieutenant Curry as Engineer Officer of the Sacramento.

Comdr. Charles W. Crosse, USN, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station, Portland, Oregon, who during the past competition year commanded the USS Gold Star, supply ship and transport, stationed at Guam, with the greatest improvement merit in Engineering, Transport Class.

Lt. Arthur K. Clarkson, USN, Engineer Officer of the USS Gold Star.

Lt. Comdr. Earl H. Quinlan, USN, commanding officer of the USS Perry, destroyer, Battle Force, with the greatest improvement in Engineering, Destroyer Class.

Lt. (jg) Vilhelm K. Busck, USN, Engineer Officer of the USS Perry.

Lt. Comdr. Thomas E. Flaherty, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS Pigeon, minesweeper, tender Submarine Divisions, Asiatic Fleet, which had the greatest improvement in merit in Engineering, Minesweeper Class, attached to Submarine Aircraft and Minecraft Commanders Afloat.

Mail From Constitution

A special cachet for mail on the USS Constitution, the historic frigate, now at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., has been arranged for Navy Day, Thursday, Oct. 27.

The Mail Clerk of the Constitution will receive addressed and properly stamped envelopes for this special marking up to midnight Oct. 26.

Mail to be marked by the cachet should be inclosed in an outer covering and sent to Mail Clerk, USS Constitution, Navy Yard, Washington, D. C.

The Navy Day cachet bears an outline design of the frigate under full sail with her name "USS Constitution" beneath, and surrounded by the legend, "1732 Navy Day 1932, George Washington Bicentennial."

USS Pennsylvania Rejoins Fleet

Bremerton, Wash.—The USS Pennsylvania, flagship of the United States Navy, which has been under overhaul and repair here for the last two months, left Oct. 6 to rejoin the fleet.

Adm. Richard Leigh, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, will join her with his flag in San Francisco upon her arrival there. Admiral Leigh transferred his flag from the Pennsylvania to the USS Omaha when she left here Sept. 6 for the American Legion convention in Portland.

With the departure of the flagship only the USS Oklahoma and USS Cincinnati will be here for repair. At the end of the month the USS California is due here for overhaul. The Cincinnati is scheduled to leave Oct. 26 but then the USS Cuyama is due for nearly two months of overhaul on Oct. 21.

Must Pay Insurance Cost

Reimbursement for payment of a liability insurance premium paid by the naval attache in London upon an official Navy automobile at the request of the British Government, has been denied by Comptroller General McCarl.

In accordance with a law requiring all automobile drivers to carry liability insurance, the British Government requested in an official letter to all foreign diplomatic representatives in London, that they voluntarily observe the requirements of the act, inasmuch as they would otherwise be immune from the provisions of the law.

The American naval attache, in compliance with the request, took out a policy to cover operation of a Packard automobile furnished by the Navy for use in his duties and paid a premium of $13.12.6. Despite the fact that a refusal to take this course would have been a distinct discourtesy on the part of this Government, Mr. McCarl ruled that not only should reimbursement of the officer be refused but that the officer must take care of premiums in the future if the insurance is to remain in force.

"Policy" was the ground of the decision, there being no law covering the subject. The "policy" referred to was "the established policy of the Government not to carry insurance on public property," and any other policy of the Government, foreign or equitable, was apparently ignored.

Shore Patrol Expenses

Reimbursement of officers of the Navy for expenses while on shore patrol must be on a per diem basis during the present fiscal year, the Comptroller General has ruled.

Rates prescribed for meals and lodging for officers on shore patrol duty in Article 698(5) (a), Navy Regulations are inoperative during the current year, it was held, and a per diem allowance of $5 within the continental limits of the United States and not to exceed an average of $6 outside the continental limits is prescribed, with fractional parts of the per diem allowed for absence for fractional parts of a day.

"Where per diem in lieu of subsistence is the only reimbursement authorized by law," the Comptroller stated, "regulations attempting to limit expenditures for particular meals are not proper. Where the officer is entitled to a per diem, he is entitled to the per diem fixed irrespective of his expenditures. Where the absence is for a fraction of a day, the per diem for such fraction is required to be based on the number of hours absent.  $\frac{1}{4}$  of the maximum being properly payable where the absence is for six hours or less;  $\frac{1}{2}$  the maximum where the absence is over six and less than twelve, and  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the maximum where the absence is over twelve hours and less than eighteen hours. The rule respecting reimbursement of expenses for absence between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. is not for application to officers on shore patrol duty, and they may be paid per diem in lieu of subsistence in accord with the period of their absence for fractions of a day as herein indicated."

Disarmament Conference

The forceful effect of President Hoover's arms proposal upon the Geneva Disarmament Conference was brought out clearly by the Hon. William R. Castle, Jr., Acting Secretary of State, in a radio address over the National Broadcasting Company network Oct. 10.

Mr. Castle pointed out that in addition to the evils of competitive armament was the compelling economic reason. "The world spends," he said, "annually over four billion for armament. Can it afford today to spend these hundreds of millions, a good part unnecessary, unproductively?"

The speaker then recounted the dire situation the conference had reached at the time President Hoover presented his simple and uncomplicated proposal for a percentage reduction of the armed forces over and above the "police components" with the added feature of curtailing the aggressive weapons.

"But, although the abolition of aggressive weapons would increase the sense of security," he declared, "it is not enough. There must also be a reduction in the number of soldiers. Standing armies are rightly regarded as the principal criterion of the armed strength of a land power and it was the ominous growth of these armies in the years preceding 1914 which was one of the main factors leading to the World War. The problem of limiting land forces has in the past defied solution because of the dual function inherent in every army. Its most obvious task is that of external defense, but in many countries it also performs an indispensable duty in the preservation of domestic order. You will see, therefore, that in the first capacity it has an obvious relation to the armies of neighboring countries and can thus be proportionately reduced without loss. As a police force, it has no relation to other countries."

"This proposal was not confined to land armaments," Mr. Castle further explained. "In addition the President suggested the abolition of all bombing planes, thus ending, in conjunction with the abolition of gas warfare, the greatest terror of the civilian population. With regard to naval armaments, he proposed that the treaty tonnage and number of battleships—already, as you know, drastically limited—be reduced by one-third; that the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers be reduced by one-fourth and that of submarines by one-third. This plan, if accepted in its entirety, would involve a cut in the world's armaments amounting to nearly one-third. No one, of course, believed that this plan would be accepted at once by all the nations. Nations have to discuss new proposals, just as individuals do. It is fair to say, however, that the main principles were enthusiastically accepted by all and that Italy and some other nations accepted the entire scheme or important parts of it immediately. Others became increasingly favorable as they had an opportunity to weigh the plan. As I told you, the Conference was instantly brought out of the doldrums into which it had fallen and was stimulated to renewed vigor. It was evident, nevertheless, that proposals so vitally affecting the armaments of every country would require time for study and consideration and it, therefore, seemed to be the course of wisdom for the Conference to adjourn for a period sufficiently long to permit each Government to examine the plan in detail. However, before adjourning, the Conference not only agreed to certain concrete propositions in line with the President's proposal, but also decided that its future work must be based on its general principles."

Referring to the resolution adopted by the conference Mr. Castle continued, "So far as the second basic principle is concerned, that of reducing defense components of armies, the Resolution says that there shall be brought about a strict limitation through real reduction of effectives. The Bureau is studying this whole problem and I am glad to tell you

Reserve Corps Notes

Members of the Officers Reserve Corps of the Army are preparing for intensive activity on behalf of National Defense projects at the coming session of Congress. They realize the short session will necessitate an early start and with that point in view Col. L. Kemper Williams, president of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, has been on an extensive speaking tour acquainting members of his organization of the fact that Congress undoubtedly will make stringent efforts to effect a drastic reduction in their funds. Colonel Williams will be on the East Coast shortly and plans to conduct another tour there.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, the Chief of Infantry, will leave Washington on Monday, Oct. 17, 1932, for the purpose of attending the regular meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States to be held at Harrisburg at 8 o'clock that evening.

Upon the invitation of the chapter's President, Lt. Col. John S. Spicer, Ordres, General Fuqua will give a short address to the assembled Reserve officers and will be the guest of honor at an informal dinner directly preceding the regular meeting. General Fuqua will return to Washington Oct. 18.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Signal communications in the field was the topic of a lecture given by Lt. Robert P. Murphy, instructor of The Infantry School, at a meeting of the Columbus and Fort Benning Reserve Officers Association, Oct. 11, in Kriz Hall, Academic area.

The meeting is one of the several scheduled on the season branch school program. Maj. Roger B. Harrison, 24th Inf. is director of the local branch school.

Indianapolis.—Maj. J. M. Huddleston addressed the Indianapolis Reserve Officers Association at its luncheon meeting on Stonewall Jackson's Valley Campaign.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—1st Lt. James H. Leusley, FA (DOL), has volunteered to coach reserve officers of the Ft. Wayne district in equitation at no cost if a sufficient number show enough interest to form a club at any of the local parks to make it worthwhile with the view in mind that next fall a larger number of reserve officers would compete in the annual horse show which is so well attended and appreciated by the citizenry of Ft. Wayne as a whole.

Washington, D. C.—Plans for an intensive Winter training program, with two instruction conferences a month instead of one as in past years, were made by officers of the 409th Attack Squadron, Army Air Corps Reserve, at the opening meeting of the Fall season Oct. 11, in the Air Corps projection room, Munitions Building.

Capt. Theodore J. Koenig, office of the chief of the Army Air Corps, was the instructor.

Capt. Richard H. Ballard, Air Corps, in charge of local reserve active training, discussed the allotment of flying time.

Among the other speakers were Col. Charles D. Herron, executive to the chief of staff for reserve affairs; Lt. James A. Willis, jr., assistant operations officers at Bolling Field; Maj. Bennett A. Molter, commanding officer of the 409th Attack Squadron and secretary of the National Reserve Officers' Association; Capt. Leroy McCarty, operations officers of the 409th, and Lt. J. Hall McKenney, squadron adjutant.

Gen. Hugh A. Drum, corps area commander, has allotted sufficient funds to the 11th Infantry, Fort Harrison, to train about fifty per cent of the reserve officers assigned to the regiment. There is no other restriction on the training of the officers other than that of funds.

Toledo, Ohio.—The Toledo district organized reserve affairs, became the Toledo military district on Oct. 1, by operation of the new plan for administration of organized reserve affairs inaugurated by Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, corps area commander.

The new district includes the old Toledo district plus the old Findlay district. Lt. Col. Jason M. Walling, Inf (DOL), is in charge as executive officer with Maj. Walter P. Tyler, Inf (DOL), at Toledo and Capt. Paul T. Hogge, Inf (DOL), in charge of the Findlay sector as his assistants.

Entertain Irish Officers

At historic old Fort Niagara, N. Y., the second oldest continuously occupied military post in the United States, the 391st Infantry of Rochester and Associated Officers of the 28th Infantry, Col. Charles H. Morrow commanding, entertained the officers of the Irish Regiment of Canada, holding a dinner in the 200 year old Fort which British, French and United States forces have all held at various times. In the evening, the Military Ball for all officers of the post and nearby organizations with their ladies completed the social activities.

The Irish Officers at this Ball appeared in their picturesque red coats and KILTS. They brought with them three Irish pipers with the Irish bagpipes.

On Sunday, the rifle teams of the two regiments competed on the post range, with a decided victory for the 391st Infantry. The scores were low because of difficult mirage conditions. The high score for the Canadian team was fired by Lt. Col. F. W. Utton, who for years has been Small Arms Instructor (corresponding to our Unit Instructors) for the troops stationed in the Province of Ontario. Colonel Utton is a noted marksman, winning the prize at the Canadian matches at Ottawa this year and he is also a former holder of the Kings Prize in the British matches at Bisley, England.

These reciprocal visits of the 391st Infantry with the various Canadian regiments have engendered a fine fraternal feeling and each organization finds that there are interesting differences in training, organization and military methods to be learned.

The scores of the rifle teams were: 391st Infantry, 1817; and Irish Regiment of Toronto, 1758.

National Guard Notes

Members of the National Guard Association are looking forward to a lively convention when the association meets in Norfolk, Va., Oct. 20, 21 and 22. Many prominent speakers will be on the program and matters of utmost importance will be under discussion.

Indianapolis.—At a meeting of the executive council of the Indiana National Guard Association the following delegates were nominated to represent the Indiana group at the national convention at Norfolk: Brig. Gen. D. Wray Deprez, Maj. Lloyd Friedline, president, Indiana National Guard Association; Lt. Col. Louis L. Roberts, Evansville. Lt. Col. Robert Stilwell, 152nd Infantry, was named alternate.

Camp Murray, Ft. Lewis, Wash.—A rifle competition for the "Governor's Trophy" has been announced by Brig. Gen. Maurice Thompson, The Adjutant General. "This trophy," the announcement stated, "will be awarded to the company team, consisting of six men, which shall make the highest aggregate score in the company team match, and the second prize will be awarded to that team making the next highest aggregate score. The conditions to govern this match each year shall be those promulgated for the government of the national team match in that year. Teams are to be selected from each company, troop or battery by its commanding officer, and one team may be selected for this contest from the regimental, field, staff and non-commissioned staff by the regimental commander or some officer to be designated by him. This trophy will be contested for annually and shall remain in the hands of the winning company team until the next succeeding contest."

Salem, Ore.—Profit is reported from the regimental canteens conducted at the Oregon National Guard camps, the Oregon Guardsman reports. The profit is small in each instance, since the canteens operate for the benefit of the men and, therefore, on the smallest possible margin of profit. Net proceeds, regimental commanders report, will be divided among the units or used for the benefit of the regiments. The record of receipt and disbursement of the four canteens is quoted herewith:

	Total Receipts	Total Disbursements
162 Infantry ....	$2,705.04	$2,453.40
186th Infantry ..	3,360.16	2,895.81
218th Field Artillery .....	758.53	684.71
249th Coast Artillery .....	768.32	602.02
Totals .....	$7,592.05	$6,640.94

Those detailed by their regiments in charge of the canteens at the recent camps are as follows: Lt. Henry E. Smith and Stf. Sgt. Charles P. Smith with the 162d Inf. Canteen, Capt. William P. Beveridge and Stf. Sgt. Elgin F. Bratney with the 186th Inf. Canteen, Capt. Elmer G. Stevanus and Pvt. 1cl. Frank Snow with the 218th F. A. Canteen, and Maj. Claude B. Washburne and Cpl. Miles R. Knapp with the 249th C. A. Canteen.

Albany, N. Y.—The Adjutant General announces that the following officers have been commissioned in the New York National Guard during the month of September:

Lt. Col.—William J. Mangine; C. Pemberton Lenart.

Maj. Aloysius C. Dineen, (Chap.).

1st Lt. William N. Haskell, 3rd.

The following were transferred to the National Guard Reserve, at their own request:

Capt. James J. Lowery.
1st Lt. Arthur W. Pense.

In War Plans Don't Forget D. K.

D. K. (decay) is an enemy of teeth, who is waging constant war in thousands of Army mouths, slowly destroying good sound Army teeth. Declare war on this foe and plan to beat him before he gets to the firing line.

Get acquainted with Forhan's, the scientific dentifrice. Brush your teeth and massage your gums with it regularly. Get the protection against D. K. which the use of Forhan's affords.

Forhan's was originated by a dentist and contains Forhan's Astrigent, a preparation long used by dentists in the treatment of pyorrhea.

You will like its quality and the efficient way it does its duty. Get a tube at the Post Exchange or Commissary.

"Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Its interests will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments.—From Vol. I, No. 1, of The Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1893.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1932

"Nothing can be more inconsistent with true public economy than withholding the means necessary to accomplish the objects entrusted by the Constitution of the National Legislature. One of these objects, which is of paramount importance, is declared by our fundamental law to be the provision for the 'common defense.'"
—CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

OF DIRECT INTEREST to the Services is the determined attitude on federal pay and furlough, which has been adopted by the National Federation of Federal Employees. The President of that association has established close relations with the American Federation of Labor. Included in the program of the Federal Employees organization, are, (1), opposition to all salary cut proposals; (2), reestablishment of uniform annual and sick leave, to replace unfair leave restrictions in the economy act; (3), restoration of authority to fill vacancies, and, (4), restoration of travel pay and allowances. If civilian employees are suffering from hardships, consequent upon the restrictions imposed by the economy act, then how much more serious are those burdened upon the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps! Time and time again we have called attention to the greater consideration in the matter of pay and allowances which in the time of prosperity was shown to the civilian employees than to members of the Services. The application of the same yardstick to every one connected with the government necessarily intensified the discrimination practiced, besides increasing the financial difficulties of the commissioned officers. Instead of proposals to cut commissioned pay, it should be increased particularly in the lower grades, or at the very least the furlough principle should be withdrawn from application to the Services. We are in any case in hearty accord with the program of the National Federation of Employees, and only urge that it be modified to the extent of recognition of the needs of the Armed Forces.

THE AMERICAN LEGION and other patriotic bodies are serving notice on Congress that they will not favor any reduction in our National Defense forces. The new commander of the Legion, carrying out the mandate of his organization, is making speeches quoting the satisfactory resolutions adopted at the Portland Convention, and reiterating the principle that preparedness is the greatest preventive of war. The Legion's Washington Bureau, as well as that of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, is following closely the budget preparation, and is advising the executive of the demands contained in their respective defense declarations. It is too much to expect there will be any increase in strength proposed in the Budget, but it is confidently asserted there will be no reduction, and even in the matter of pay it is stated the schedules fixed by law will be included. Changes will be proposed in the economy law, and it is in connection with their consideration that the only hope of relief for the Services lies.

CERTAINLY WITH INTERNATIONAL relations as they are—Lloyd George describes them as far more dangerous and war menacing than before the World conflict began—the United States might well take a leaf out of the book of Japan. That country, the course of which in China shows an understanding of realities, is including in its new budget, double the sums for the Army and Navy available for the present fiscal year. The current appropriations for the Army are 189,000,000 yen, and for the Navy 211,000,000 yen. In the budget being prepared, the Army will receive 560,000,000 yen and the Navy almost as much. In other words, the national defense expense will be trebled. It is clear Manchuria is not alone responsible for this tremendous increase. A fair inference would indicate that the Tokyo authorities are putting their nation into a condition where it can effectively resist any foreign attempt to force abandonment of fundamental policies. The mere fact that Japan is prepared is in itself sufficient to cause hesitation in action by governments opposed to those policies. From developments since the publication of the Lytton report, we rather anticipate the League of Nations will be reluctant to insist upon the adoption of the recommendations set forth in that document. So far as the United States is concerned, the State Department has made and will make no comment upon the report. We understand we will join in representations to Japan only if they are initiated by the League and agreed upon by all the members of the League. This being so, we rather think Japan, prepared, is in a position to go ahead and work her will. The whole incident is a demonstration of the value of preparedness.

THE VISION OFFICERS of the Navy once had of using Monrovia, the seaport of Liberia, as a preliminary base of operations in case of war with an European power, has disappeared, as a result of the agreement reached at Geneva to transfer the control of that country to the League of Nations. With due appreciation of the conditions existing in Liberia, the outcry which has been raised against slavery there, the corruption and graft which have been rife, and the poverty-stricken and unsanitary state of the people, the fact remains that the territory was made a refuge for American freed negroes more than a century ago, and in its existence the United States always has had a paternal concern. In recent years, American capital has been employed to develop huge rubber plantations, and these are becoming a source of supply for this valuable material. Great Britain and France have pursued policies which have encroached upon Liberian territory and liberty, and have advanced moneys to get her into their debt. By placing Liberia under the League of Nations, which is controlled by the British and French, a step has been taken toward eliminating American influence. Perhaps the time will come when the League will decide to create a Liberian mandate, and confer it upon one of the great Powers. And we know from the experience under the Versailles treaty that a mandate means permanent possession.

Service Humor

A Blessed Event

Drunk—Gentlemen, I wish to register twins.

Registrar—And why do you say "gentlemen," I am all alone here?

Drunk—Heavens, I shew two of you. Guesh I go home and have nuther look and mebbe there ish only one twins after all.

—The Hollander.

Tanned Trouble

"Having trouble with your car?" asked the inquisitive passerby.

"Certainly not," came the reply from underneath the car. "I just crawled under here to get out of the sun."

—Great Lakes Bulletin.

Easily Satisfied

Corporal Shacker: "Gimme a couple of loaves of white bread."

Corporal Shacker: "O.K. Gimme a pint."

—Legation Guard News.

Speaking of Oil

The out-of-work gent marched up to the foreman at a railroad siding and asked for a job.

"What can you do?" asked the foreman.

"Anything," replied the man. "All right," replied the foreman, "take this oil can and oil all switch points and crossings up the line."

After an absence of three days, the foreman received a telegram which read: "Dear Sir: Arrived at Chicago. Please forward more oil."

—Northampton Deep.

Different Idea

Old Timer: "Back in the old days we thought nothing of getting up at five in the morning."

Boot: "I don't think much of it myself."

—Melville Job Order.

Opinion Stands

Husband—If a man steals—no matter what—he will live to regret it.

Wife (sweetly)—You used to steal kisses from me before we were married.

Husband—Well, you heard what I said.

—Home Port.

Mission Man

Officer—You look worried.

Drunk—Yesh Offisher I left me home early this morning and haven't been seen since.

—The Hollander.

More "Team Work"

I wish to contribute a "little story" to rival "Team Work" in Service Humor, Sep. 24, 1932.

"Officers of the 342nd Engineers (General Service) in uniform while on a tactical walk met an elderly lady. She beamed on them and said, 'I think you Boy Scouts are such a wonderful thing for boys.'"

When in the O.R.C. I was assigned to the 342nd Engrs. and this story was recounted as an actual happening.

—JAMES H. LE VAN, Asst. San. Engr., USPHS.

One at a Time

Policeman—Lady don't you know this is a one-way street?

Lady—Well ain't I going one way?

—Texas Steer.

ASK THE JOURNAL

SEND your queries to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL QUESTION EDITOR and an answer will be given as soon as possible after receipt, either in this column or by mail. Questions relative to living conditions at Army posts or Navy shore stations will be answered in detail by letter.

V. M.—Company L, 47th New York Volunteers left Fort Adams, R. I., for Porto Rico, October 10, 1898, and arrived in Porto Rico October 16, 1898. They left Porto Rico March 4, 1899, for the United States and arrived in the United States March 10, 1899.

S. E. M.—Continuous residence abroad by a retired officer of the Regular Army cannot affect his retired status in any way as long as he has secured permission from the War Department to live abroad. Nor will residence abroad affect his citizenship if he was born in the United States. If born abroad and naturalized later, the taking up of permanent residence in a foreign country will affect his status as a citizen and may bring about the loss of his citizenship if he does not take the steps required by the Department of State.

L. J. H.—What is contained in the War Department Budget for the fiscal year 1934 is confidential until the entire budget of the President is presented to Congress, at the opening of the session.

G. L.—The Adjutant General's Office informs us that it is expected that recruiting for service in the Army generally, will be resumed in a month or six weeks. At the present time recruits are only being accepted in special cases.

B. A.—The bill clerk of the United States Senate informed us that S. 3481 was not reported out by the Military Affairs Committee. It will probably be on the calendar at the future session.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Army Chiefs of Branches—With a number of vacancies due shortly in the office of the chiefs of arms and services, speculation is arising as to possible "makes."

A summary of the situation reveals two vacancies occurring this December—Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bridges completes his four-year detail as The Adjutant General on Dec. 31, 1932, and Brig. Gen. Edward L. Munson, assistant to the Surgeon General of the Army, reaches the statutory retirement age Dec. 27, 1932.

Early in 1933 additional vacancies will be occurring. On Jan. 8, 1933 Brig. Gen. Francis LeJ. Parker completes his tour as Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs. Two chiefs complete their four-year details on March 27, 1933—Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua as Chief of Infantry and Maj. Gen. Harry L. Gilchrist as Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service.

Later in 1933 will see additional vacancies. Brig. Gen. James F. McKinley, assistant to The Adjutant General, completes his four-year detail July 15; Maj. Gen. Louis H. Bash, assistant to the Quartermaster General, fills out his term on Sept. 18; Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, Chief of Engineers, completes his tour Sept. 30; Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, Judge Advocate General, reaches retirement age Nov. 23, and Col. Julian E. Yates, Chief of Chaplains, completes his tour Dec. 22.

With General McKinley's tour expiring only a few months later than General Bridges, these two vacancies are always spoken of together. This is more particularly true inasmuch as it is generally accepted that General McKinley will be selected to succeed his chief as The Adjutant General of the Army. One hears some talk that General Bridges will succeed himself. If one considers the success with which the General has conducted his department and the high esteem in which he is held by the Secretary of War as well as by the Chief of Staff he might give credence to this thought, but the "one term" policy has met with wide-spread approval in and out of the service and in spite of the reappointment of General Ireland as the Surgeon General (which, after all, was only for a few months) the policy is still very much alive. At least, up-setting it would surely raise a howl. General McKinley has a splendid record of achievement and his promotion would not only be in line of seniority (by virtue of his being a temporary brigadier general, although he is number 9 on the colonels of the department) but also would seem to meet with general approval. Other names loom strong, however, and whether or not General McKinley's elevation takes place will be strong contenders for one of the vacancies.

A Decoration that is a Disgrace . . . Get rid of DANDRUFF today

YOU can't blame a fellow for sticking out his chest and strutting about a bit when he has received an honorable decoration. After all, it's only human nature.

But it is an entirely different story when your coat collar is decorated with unclean-looking flakes of loose dandruff. Particularly at inspection. It may mean assignment to dirty detail work.

Perhaps it may mean the loss of passes or leaves, and then where will you stand with your best girl?

Dandruff might be excusable if it were difficult to overcome. But it isn't. Full strength Listerine, applied to the scalp, followed by a brisk rub will do the trick. Inexpensively too. For those whose scalp and hair are excessively dry, a little olive oil used in conjunction with the Listerine shampoo has been found to be helpful. Of course, this treatment must be used systematically in order to produce results. But you will be rewarded in a few days by the improved condition of your scalp and hair.

Dandruff, many leading skin specialists say, is a germ condition. That is why Listerine, which is noted for its remarkable germ-killing power, is so successful in treating it.

Try Listerine this way for a week, and see if the results do not please you. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

LISTERINE RELIEVES HOT, ITCHING SCALP

Col. John B. Shuman, although number 16 out of the 26 colonels of the department, is always mentioned in connection with the post. He is an officer of exceptional ability and favorably known in Washington where he served until his recent transfer to the Presidio of San Francisco. Some say that his transfer to a point so far from Washington would indicate that he will not be brought back so quickly, but this cannot be taken too seriously. Col. Milton A. Elliott, Jr., who succeeded Colonel Shuman in Washington, also receives frequent mention. He has an excellent record and his transfer to Washington is taken by some to indicate the consideration being shown him. Also having been on General MacArthur's staff in the Philippines he is well known to the Chief of Staff. Col. John P. Wade receives frequent mention in connection with the post. His service in Washington has been of the highest caliber and he is widely known in the field. Colonel Wade is also the senior colonel who would have time left to serve the detail (he lacks a few months of having the full four years, but this would not count against him.) Col. Edgar T. Conley's name is frequently heard. He, too, has many points in his favor and his appointment would not be a surprise. Another who figures prominently is Col. Frank C. Burnett, whose work has elicited much favorable comment. It is assumed that as far as possible appointments will be made from among those officers who still have four years left to complete the details. With that point in view it is of interest to note the following list of colonels of the Department in the order of their seniority with the year of their retirement for age following their names: Col. Julius T. Conrad, November, 1932; Col. John E. Woodward, 1934; Col. John P. Wade, June, 1936; Col. Edgar T. Conley, 1936; Col. Harvey W. Miller, 1939; Col. Walter T. Bates, August, 1936; Col. Ralph B. Parrott, 1939; Brig. Gen. James F. McKinley, 1944; Col. Milton A. Elliott, Jr., 1941; Col. Paul T. Hayne, 1940; Col. Louis S. Chappelle, 1934; Col. George L. Hicks, 1935; Col. Robert Whitfield, 1942; Col. Jennings B. Wilson, 1936; Col. John B. Shuman, 1940; Col. Harry D. Mitchell, 1938; Col. Frank C. Burnett, 1940; Col. Horace F. Sykes, 1943; Col. David Y. Beckham, 1938; Col. John O. Steger, 1941; Col. Alfred J. Booth, 1939; Col. James Totten, 1944; Col. John A. Berry, 1944; Col. Robert L. Collins, 1942; and Col. William G. Murchison, 1937.

In regard to a successor for General Munson as assistant to the Surgeon General there is a wealth of material among the 78 colonels of the Medical Corps. Many of those near the top of the list have not time left on the active list to serve a four-year detail, however, this may not be taken into consideration, particularly in view of the fact that General Munson himself was appointed to the post when he had only a year and a half left on the active list. The senior colonel would be Col. George A. Skinner, who goes out in 1934. The senior who would have time left to serve would be Col. Frederick M. Hartsock who has until 1939. One hears the names of Col. Douglas F. Duval, Col. Clarence J. Manly and Col. Albert E. Truby, none of whom have four years left on the active list.

Speculation as to a successor for General Parker in January is not so plentiful. Probably most frequent mention is made of the name of Col. Creed F. Cox, until recently General Parker's assistant and now on duty with the Field Artillery in the Philippines. Lt. Col. Walter Campbell Short, now on duty in General Parker's office, would receive considerable mention if he were a full colonel, as would Lt. Col. Cary I. Crockett, Inf., who has had considerable experience in insular affairs. Col. Gordon Johnston, Cav., because of his broad experience and outstanding record, also is frequently mentioned.

Of outstanding interest is the selection of a successor for General Fuqua. He also is mentioned to succeed himself, but it is generally believed the "one-term" policy will prevail. There are a number of names persistently connected with this post. Col. Laurence Halstead, General Fuqua's executive officer, who has a brilliant record and is well liked, seems to stand an excellent chance. He is number 57 on the list of Infantry colonels. Col. William H. Waldron, now executive officer for General Leach in the Militia Bureau, is another whose record and position both seem to make him likely. Colonel Waldron's work in the Militia Bureau has made him a favorite with the members of the National Guard, members of which would hail his appointment. He is number 75 on the list of colonels. Col. Edward Croft, who stands number 42 on the list of colonels, is widely and well known and many believe him a formidable candidate. Col. Lorenzo D. Gasser, whose leadership of the 31st Infantry in the Shanghai crisis brought so much praise from all civil and military sources, is in an excellent position. His service in Washington is well remembered and his record outstanding. While he is pretty far down the list, standing number 119, this is not believed to mitigate against him inasmuch as the present chief is now only 112 on the list of colonels. The name of Col. George F. Baltzell is often brought up and in view of the high opinion held of him his selection would not be unlikely, particularly if seniority is given much weight for he is only 22 on the list. Col. Walter C. Sweeney, now on the General Staff Corps, (number 87 on the list) is well favored and doubtless will be given serious consideration. Col. Alexander T. Overshine's name should be placed well up on the list, for his accomplishments and record give him splendid opportunity for consideration. Col. David L. Stone, whose work in the Assistant Secretary's office in connection with Reserve Affairs made him many friends in civilian life, and whose military record is of the highest, also stands an excellent chance for the post.

General Gilchrist's achievements as chief of the Chemical Warfare Service merit him for consideration for reappointment and if it were not for the one term policy his reappointment probably would receive serious consideration. Col. Charles W. Epton, now chief of staff of the Philippine Department, is the senior of the two colonels of Chemical Warfare Service. Col. Claude E. Brigham, commanding the school at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., is the other. It seems to be the general consensus that one of these will be selected, instead of going outside the department as was done in the case of General Gilchrist, a Medical Corps Officer.

Liberalize Partial Pay Regulations—More liberal provisions allowing commissioned officers, warrant officers, nurses and contract surgeons, to draw as partial payments the pay and allowances due for a portion of a month in advance of pay day, were laid down by the War Department, in changes in Army Regulations issued this week. The changes, which allow pay to be drawn while on leave in an emergency from any disbursing office or while in a travel status, at any disbursing office en route, are as follows:

"I—Pay accounts—Changes in AR 35-1360.—Pending the printing of changes in AR 35-1360 (Finance Department—Pay Accounts of Officers, Warrant Officers, Army Nurses, and Contract Surgeons), February 12, 1930, the following changes in those regulations are published:

"1. Paragraph 1b (3) is changed as follows:

"(3) On leave of absence or detached from permanent duty station, at any disbursing office.

"2. Paragraph 6a is rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

"a. Commissioned officers, warrant officers, Army nurses, and contract surgeons, may upon submission of proper vouchers therefor, accompanied by a transcript statement of account (unless payment is precluded by the provisions of paragraph 5d, AR 35-1740), be paid as partial payments the pay and allowances due and earned for the portion of the calendar month elapsed prior to date of voucher, under conditions as follows:

"(1) When under orders for permanent change of station, at old station, at new station, or at any disbursing office en route.

"(2) In cases of emergency while on leave of absence or detached from permanent duty station, at any disbursing office."

Army Promotion—The promotion of Chaplain Oscar W. Reynolds (captain) USA, to the grade of major with rank from Oct. 6, 1932 was announced in Special Orders this week. Chaplain Reynolds, now at Ft. McDowell, Calif., entered the service during the War as a chaplain (first lieutenant), National Army, later being promoted to the rank of Captain, National Army. After the War he was appointed to the Regular Army from Massachusetts as a first lieutenant, making his captaincy in October, 1923. He is a graduate of University of Nebraska, Boston University and the Chaplains School.

Reduce Size of Oak-Leaf Cluster—The oak-leaf cluster has been reduced considerably in size. Changes in Army Regulations, issued this week, (paragraphs 26 and 45c of 600-35), prescribe that the cluster, a bronze twig of 4 oak leaves with 3 acorns on the stem, shall be 13/32 of an inch in length, instead of 15/16 of an inch. The miniature of the cluster is reduced from 13/32 of an inch to 5/16 in length. Officers who possess oak-leaf clusters of the larger size, may continue to wear them, it was stated in the Adjutant General's Office. It is believed, however, that practically all officers entitled to wear one or more clusters, will order them from the Quartermaster General.

Comptroller McCarl Sticks By His Guns—The Comptroller General stands by his guns in holding that widows of Army and Navy personnel must take an 8 1/4 per cent cut in the six months' death gratuity allowed by law. He has turned down an appeal of Maj. J. P. Harper, FD, USN, that he reverse his decision in the case of Mrs. Rose L. Minter, widow of 1st Lt. Hugh C. Minter, AC, USA. Several weeks ago, Comptroller McCarl decided that the gratuity paid to Mrs. Minter was subject to an 8 1/4 per cent reduction under the Economy Act. Major Harper in claiming that Mrs. Minter should be allowed the full six months' pay, cited a previous decision by the Comptroller of the Treasury which he thought would authorize the full pay.

In denying this contention, McCarl declared his previous ruling would have to stand.

"The economy act is concerned primarily with savings in personnel appropriations," he said. "Deductions from pay by any one of the three methods therein provided are required to be impounded and to remain in the Treasury available for no other purpose. The appropriation is available only for the reduced amount of pay, and in so far as determining a measure for computing six months' death gratuity, the rate of pay has thus been reduced by the amount required to be impounded and to remain in the Treasury."

In answer to the contention concerning the previous decision, McCarl said the two cases were separate and distinct.

Flight Pay Fight Ahead—Rumors that another attack upon flight pay will be made at the forthcoming session of Congress have been circulating in naval aviation circles the past few days. It is said that certain of the congressmen who sought to reduce flying pay last year, are preparing to urge their project next winter, and have requested information as to the remuneration of aviation officers of other countries in an effort to bolster up their arguments. Naval aviation officials, while discrediting the rumors of any activity along this score at the present time, in the midst of the congressional campaigns, look for the question to come up next winter and are preparing to fight the move. Whether the attempt will take the form it did last year, or will be a demand for reduction in flight orders is a subject of conjecture. It is the contention of many naval aviators, however, that the move can only be beaten effectively, if the Army, and the Coast Guard will join them in the fight.

Army Retirements—Special orders this week announced the retirement of three officers who were found physically disqualified in their examinations for promotion. They are Maj. Harry Thornton Moore, MC; Maj. Reginald L. Foster, QMC; and Capt. Nicholas W. Lisle, Cav. All will be retired Oct. 31, 1932 with the rank to which they would have been promoted if found physically qualified.

Two additional officers were ordered retired on their own applications. They are Col. Charles C. Allen, Inf., after more than 33 years service; and Capt. Lewis L. Tanney, MAC, after more than 30 years service. Both retired as of Oct. 31, 1932.

Major Moore, who after his retirement will rank as lieutenant colonel from Oct. 1, 1932, was born in Illinois May 24, 1870. He entered the service in the Quartermaster Corps Section of the Reserves Dec. 15, 1916 and served throughout the War, rising to the grade of major. After the War he was commissioned a major in the regular army. Major Moore earned the degrees of LL.B., LL.M., and M.P.L., at the National University, Washington, D. C., and D.C.L. at the Chicago Law School. He also was graduated from the Quartermaster Corps School in 1924.

Major Foster will be retired with the rank of lieutenant colonel, the rank to date from Oct. 1, 1932. He was born in China, Nov. 25, 1869. His military service dates from 1903 when he was commissioned a first lieutenant of Infantry in the New York National Guard, in which organization he was promoted through the ranks to become a colonel on May 29, 1917. After the World War he was commissioned a major in the Quartermaster Corps, Regular Army. Major Foster was graduated from Yale University in 1891 and is a recipient of a Distinguished Service Medal.

Captain Lisle was born in Kentucky, Aug. 10, 1891. He was appointed to the United States Military Academy from that state in 1913. Upon graduation in 1917 he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Cavalry, attaining his present rank of captain temporarily Aug. 5, 1917, and permanently, April 19, 1920. He will be retired with the rank of major with rank from Oct. 1, 1932. He is a graduate of the Ordnance School, and the Cavalry School Troop Officers Course.

Colonel Allen entered the service at the age of 25 as a first lieutenant Pennsylvania Infantry, May 11, 1898. He became commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army Infantry in 1901 being promoted to be first lieutenant and then captain before the World War. June 30, 1916 he was appointed a colonel, field and staff, 1st Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard. Later he was commissioned in the National Army, where he served as a major, lieutenant colonel and colonel. He became a colonel in the Regular Army June 26, 1928. Colonel Allen holds the Distinguished Service Medal.

Captain Tanney was born in Pennsylvania Sept. 11, 1882. He enlisted in 1901 serving through the enlisted grades until the War at which time he was a master hospital sergeant. In 1918 he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Sanitary Corps, National Army, later being promoted to be a sergeant. Following the War he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Medical Administrative Corps and in 1925 was promoted to be a captain.

Maj. William E. McCormack, MC, Letterman General Hospital, was ordered this week to his home to await retirement.

Capt. Richard Allen, QMC, Letterman General Hospital, also was ordered to proceed to his home to await retirement.

NEW ARMY COACH

West Point, N. Y.—Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, head coach of the Army football squad, will complete his four year detail at the Military Academy next June and be replaced as head coach by 2nd Lt. Garrison H. Davidson, CE, according to an announcement made here by Maj. P. B. Fleming, Graduate Manager of Athletics. Despite strong efforts to have Sasse remain at the head of Army football destinies for an additional year, his anxiety to return to duty with troops was considered, and at his own request the authorities have authorized his relief. Early in 1933 War Department orders assigning him to his next station are expected.

Lt. Davidson's designation is a continuance of the West Point football policy of utilizing the services of officers on the active list of the regular Army who are graduates of the Military Academy and former Army players.

In commenting on the appointment, Major Fleming said: "Since 'Gar' Davidson's graduation in 1927, he has returned to West Point each Fall and coached football. For three years he was end coach of the plebe squad and then spent two years coaching the 'B' squad or scrubs. During those two years he was in charge of scouting, specializing on Yale and Notre Dame. This Fall Davidson is head coach of the plebe squad. He is the first 2nd Lieutenant ever placed in charge of Army football destinies and is also, I believe, the youngest officer to fill the position of head coach."

Lt. Davidson, who is of medium height and prematurely grey, has a winning personality. He played under Capt. McEwen and then coached under Capt. "Biff" Jones as well as Major Sasse. Davidson stated that he does not contemplate any changes in either the Army system of offense or defense. He believes that the style of play developed by his predecessors is best adapted to meet the special conditions existing at West Point.

"Gar" Davidson entered the Military Academy in 1923 on his graduation from Stuyvesant High School in New York City. In High School he played football for two years, winning two letters.

Major Sasse has been an outstanding success as a coach. Prior to 1930 he was end coach and developed a number of players who received "All American" honors. In 1929 he was transferred to West Point and was assigned to duty with the 2nd Squadron, 10th Cavalry. That year he worked with Captain "Biff" Jones, familiarizing himself with the various problems of head coach.

SPORT BRIEFS

Ft. Sill, Okla.—Lt. R. R. Mace with a gross of 72 was the winner of the first of the fall golf tournaments at the Field Artillery School leading a field of 79. He was tied with Lt. J. B. Horton who had the same gross and who scored a net of 62 but under the ruling of the greens committee two prizes cannot be won by the same player so Lieutenant Horton was placed as winner of the first flight. Capt. A. P. Kitson, gross 73, net 62 and Capt. J. C. Adams, gross 85, net 61, were winners of the second and third flights respectively.

In the opening game of the fall round-robin polo tournament at the Field Artillery School, the Academic Division Reds, a six goal outfit, defeated the 18th Field Artillery Blues and Whites, a five goal combination, by a final tally of 10 to 7 after being outplayed throughout the first four periods.

The 18th Field Artillery, Sunday, Oct. 2, defeated the 1st Bn., 1st FA in the fall tournament at the Field Artillery School, by the score of 12-0. The winners had it all their own way in mid field but the 1st FA held them a number of times in the scoring zone.

SERVICE SPORT NEWS

Washington, D. C.—Rallying after being 2 downs at the turn, Mrs. W. F. Holtzman lifted the Army and Navy Country Club women's golf championship by conquering Mrs. C. K. Osborne in the finals, 1 up on the nineteenth hole.

Dayton, Ohio—In one of the most sensational games ever seen in the Dayton Stadium, Dayton University's Flilers whipped the Quantico Marines here Oct. 7, 21 to 14. It was the first victory Dayton has scored over the Leathernecks since 1926.

Governors Island, N. Y.—The Governors Island quartet, became the first regular army unit to capture the military polo championship of the Second Corps Area when it subdued the Essex Troop four of Newark by 12-11 here Oct. 9 in the final match of the seventh annual tournament.

One of the largest crowds of the current season, numbering about 4,500 and including a host of army officials, watched the home team overcome a handicap of eight goals conceded to its opponent and thereby annex the Commanding General's Trophy.

Among the army notables were Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, present commander of the Second Corps Area, who had as his guests Brig. Gen. Lucius Holbrook, Brig. Gen. Howard L. Lobach and Maj. Gen. William C. Rivers, retired.

New York—A team of French Army officers will come to the United States again this year to compete in the international military events in Madison Square Garden. It was announced by officials of the National Horse Show. This year's exhibition will be held from Nov. 9 to 15.

The French officers, their men and mounts, will arrive on Oct. 15 on the Isle de France. They will proceed immediately to Boston, where they will take part in the international events at the Boston Horse Show in the Boston Garden.

Members of the Army Athletic Association will be able to obtain an unlimited number of "non-personal use" tickets to football games this fall with only the Notre Dame game and probably the Navy game excepted.

The maximum number of "personal use" tickets which may be obtained by any member for a game is four. A request for these tickets certifies that the member or at least one of his immediate family will attend the game and occupy one of the seats requested. "Personal use" tickets are better located than the "non-personal" ones.

Purchase of tickets to either the Notre Dame or Navy game will constitute payment of annual Association. It is announced. Application blanks have been sent out to all members to be used in requesting tickets to the Pittsburgh, Yale, Harvard, North Dakota State, and Notre Dame games.

No reservations are made unless accompanied by the necessary remittance. It is said. Tickets will be put in the mail about ten days before the game.

Salt Lake City—Thirteen Army horsemen, eleven of them from Ft. Douglas, rode ten Ft. Douglas horses for a total of 32 ribbons at the Utah State Fair here Oct. 1, 2 and 3. The outstanding performances were by Capt. N. E. Waldron, QMC (US Remount Service), and Miss Barbara Cox, age 11, daughter of Maj. C. F. Cox, VC, of Ft. Douglas. Miss Cox captured three blue ribbons, two in children's classes and one showing her father's Irish Hunter, "Vick Noyes," in the Model Hunter Class. Riding with Capt. Joe Rogers of Boise, Idaho, Miss Cox placed fourth in the adult and child class. Miss Cox also rode Captain Rogers' "Triumphal" in the ladies three gaited classes.

Captain Waldron was second high total point winner of the entire show, taking 8 places, 3 of them firsts. His daughter Miss Patricia Waldron, age 15, rode with him in the adult and child class for a 3rd, as well as showing the Captain's "Missy" in four other classes, placing third in each of three of these. This was Miss Waldrons' third horse show.

The inexperienced riders were Mrs. R. G. Emery and Miss Patty Crowell. Mrs. Emery showing Maj. W. H. Moss' "Nick" in the ladies three gaited classes. Miss Crowell, age twelve, daughter of Capt. H. B. Crowell, 38th Infantry, rode her "G.I." mount "Tex" to a third and a fourth in two children's classes.

Langley Field, Va.—The Langley Field Birdmen continued their march to another banner year on the gridiron as they mowed down the fighting Shenandoah College aggregation of Dayton, Va., 43 to 6 for their third consecutive victory of the season. Some 2,500 spectators saw the local Air Corpsmen of the Peninsula completely outclass and outgain their guests under the floodlights of Langley Field Stadium.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Lt. Washington M. Ives, head mentor of the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, football team in 1931, has been reappointed to that position for this season. As pilot of the Kellys last year, Lieutenant Ives steered them through the 1st Battalion shoals and lifted them over the dangerous reef formed by the Tankers to win the garrison football championship. Assisting Lieutenant Ives will be Lt. James R. Pierce, head line coach, 1st Sgt. Davis, Co-B, assistant line coach, and Staff Sgt. Kjelstrom, Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., assistant backfield coach.

PERFECT HOLE-IN-ONE

Ft. Bragg, N. C.—That rarest of holes-in-one, the perfect golf shot that goes direct from tee to cup without touching the ground or any other object, was made by Major R. L. Burnell, Field Artillery, on October 8, 1932.

Playing in a foursome on the Officers' Club course at Ft. Bragg, Major Burnell made number six, across the water hazard, in one. This hole is a par 3, 160 yards. The other members of the foursome were Major Banks, Lieut. Millice and Lieut. Furrholm.

WEST POINT FOOTBALL

West Point, N. Y.—For the Army-Pittsburgh game here Saturday, Oct. 15, in beautiful Michie Stadium, all the color and glamour of the big New York City games will be present, according to Maj. P. B. Fleming, Army Graduate Manager of Athletics.

"With the kick-off scheduled at 2:00 P. M.," says a statement from the Academy, "the entire Corps of Cadets will march into the Stadium at 1:50 P. M., and after going through various military maneuvers on the gridiron, will take their seats in one group. The unsurpassed Army cheering section will then go into action with its inspiring football songs and staccato yells. Maude, the traditional Army mascot, gayly caparisoned, will gallop up and down the sidelines. An effort is being made by the cadets to teach the mule a few special brays of defiance for the Pittsburgh 'Golden Panthers'."

"Champions of the East last year and with practically the same backfield that caused Army's downfall last season, Pitt is a heavy favorite to win this first major test of both teams. Crippled through the loss of Hank Sebastian and Ed Herb, Major Sasse is devoting all practice sessions this week to Pittsburgh even though a week later the team will take on Yale at New Haven."

Last Saturday Army gave Carleton, the Mid-West conference champions, a trouncing well evidenced by the 57-0 score.

How efficiently the Cadets functioned both on attack and defense was shown by the fact that the Army's running attack netted 234 yards. Fifty-five yards were gained by the forward pass. Army made fourteen first downs to six for Carleton. The Westerners never had the ball inside the Army 40-yard line.

ANNAPOLIS FOOTBALL

Annapolis, Md.—With one defeat and one victory chalked up on the schedule so far, Navy is drawing in its football belt and looking towards its next opponent, Ohio University, of Athens, with a speculative eye. The game will be staged today, Oct. 15, at Annapolis.

The Ohio Bobcats admit having a better front wall than last season and this point alone means trouble for the midshipmen, particularly in view of the fact that Captain Reedy's men have not proved their line-cracking ability so far this season.

Last Saturday Navy took Washington and Lee 33-0.

"This year Navy seems to have a combination of the two systems," it was pointed out here at the office of the graduate manager of athletics, "a slow, but strong line and a light, fast backfield. Last Saturday against Washington and Lee the Navy line made one of those brave, but scarcely noticed stands that insures against defeat. A chart of the game shows that the Generals made a total advance of only 20 yards all afternoon on ground plays against Navy's front wall—from this must be subtracted a loss of 15 yards caused by Navy linemen smothering the Washington and Lee backfield. It has been a good many years since a Navy line held an opponent to a net gain of only 5 yards all afternoon—just a little more than one yard a quarter! This performance, however, must be qualified in several respects. Although the Washington and Lee line was approximately as heavy as Navy's it provides a rather uncertain measuring stick due to its previous performances against George Washington and Davidson. For another thing, the midshipmen still were smarting under defeat at the hands of William and Mary and consequently turned in a Spartan performance. Whether or not Navy's line is ever again mentioned in despatches this season, there is no doubt that it found itself last Saturday."

"Another new factor appearing in Navy's offense last Saturday was the successful end run. Most Navy followers know that the midshipmen have been attempting to execute end runs ever since the treaty of Versailles, but invariably the result was just another down with yards to go. This because Navy seldom had a group of fast backs and powerful ends in the same season. In Saturday's game Navy not only swept the ends for first downs almost at will, but used the idea several times to make touchdowns."

"Perhaps one reliable bit of evidence indicating the ingrained improvement of Navy this season over last, is shown by an ability to make points after a touchdown. Navy's record in extra points for 1931 was: William and Mary 1, Wooster 1, Army 1. Last Saturday Navy eclipsed this entire record in one game by making a point after touchdown four times out of five attempts. In accomplishing this Navy used a variety of methods such as by placement, drop kick, and forward pass."

"On Monday, Aug. 22," a correspondent writes to us, "Mrs. R. A. Whitmore, by her courage and presence of mind, averted what might have been a great calamity at Chinwangtao, China. The sea was fairly rough and there was a strong undertow, and Mrs. Whitmore was bathing in shallow water, with her own small child. Other grown up people and children were also bathing when suddenly the strong undertow swept four small children beyond their depths. Seeing their predicament, Mrs. Whitmore went to their help and was carried beyond her depth with the panic stricken children clinging to her and hampering her movements. She held the two smaller ones firmly in her arms, and helped the bigger ones, who could swim a little, and pushed them all towards the shore. In fact, she managed to keep them all afloat until help came to her, although she was in great danger from drowning, as the children kept pushing her under water, and she was very nearly suffocated."

Mrs. Whitmore, was Sally Maynadler Miley, daughter of the late Lt. Col. John D. Miley, and sister of Maj. John D. Miley, jr., and Lt. William M. Miley.

Lt. Robert B. Williams, AC, USA, and Mrs. Williams, have returned to Randolph Fld., Tex., after having spent three months leave with their sister and brother-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Charles B. Fenton, in Panama. During their visit

Comptroller General Decisions

A-43640. (S) Mileage—Route—Army Officer accompanying remains. Where the remains of an officer could have been transported over either of two routes at approximately the same cost to the Government, the fact that transportation over the longer route eliminated wagon transfer at a junction point over the shorter route does not permit payment of mileage to the escort officer in excess of the distance between the terminal points as established by the Official Table of Distances.

A-44560. (S) Economy Act—Retired Emergency Officer and United States Commissioner. A retired emergency officer who is also a United States Commissioner is prohibited by the provisions of section 212 of the Economy Act from receiving both retired pay plus civilian compensation in the form of fees for services as a United States Commissioner, in excess of $3,000 per annum. The quarter is the basis for computation, and the Veterans' Administration should not pay any amount of retired pay for a quarter until it has ascertained the amount of fees received as commissioner for such quarter, which amount may be shown by the officer in the form of a certified copy of the certificate of settlement issued by the General Accounting Office in payment of such fees.

MERCHANT MARINE

Chairman O'Connor Speaks

Foreign shipping interests, as well as certain elements in this country, are at work to undermine the United States Merchant Marine, Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, told the Mid West Foreign Trade and Merchant Marine Conference meeting in St. Louis on Oct. 10. "I think sometimes," Mr. O'Connor declared, "we do not realize how powerful are the forces now at work to undermine the American Merchant Marine."

"Foremost among these destructive influences are the foreign shipping interests. Even foreign governments openly attack our shipping policy. They would have you believe that Government assistance to merchant ships is an American invention, notwithstanding they have long used similar measures to promote the upbuilding of their own fleets."

"Accustomed for many years to dictate the terms imposed for transporting our commerce overseas, foreign shipowners have not yet become reconciled to the annual loss of some $300,000,000 which they have suffered since we acquired a strong merchant marine of our own. Furthermore, they know that their losses are bound to increase as our shippers and travelers come to realize the wisdom of bestowing a more generous share of patronage on American ships. With these facts in mind, we can understand the foreigners' reasons for attempting to arrest the further growth of the American merchant marine, and for trying to wreck the services already in existence."

"Read some of the more popular foreign shipping journals. See how they attempt to discredit our construction loans and ocean-mail contracts. They know perfectly well that these aids were granted by Congress in order to lower the existing differentials in capital charges and operating costs, just as our tariff aims to lessen similar differentials in the case of other American industries."

"Do the foreign shipping journals discuss this phase of the matter? Almost never. Instead, they tell their readers—and, remember, they have plenty of readers on this side of the water—that Congress has granted American shipping an unreasonably large and wholly needless subsidy, with a view of making it impossible for the foreign shipowner to compete with us."

"This is dangerous propaganda. It is all the more dangerous because it comes from sources that do not usually indulge in statements as wild as these. It has been kept up continuously ever since the Merchant Marine Act of 1928 first became law. That it has had its effect on certain shallow thinkers in this country cannot be denied."

NRA Regional Matches

Rifle and pistol shooters of the Northwest assembled at Fort Lewis, Washington, for the largest event of this kind ever held in the Pacific Northwest. They were greeted with ideal weather which continued throughout the matches, the Northwest Regional Rifle and Pistol Competitions, National Rifle Association.

A total of 264 registered for the various events, over one-third of the total registered were from the Navy. The first day was taken up with sighting in over the course from 200 yards up to and including the 1000 yard range. The next morning began in earnest starting off with 169 entries in the Navy match which was won by Sgt. Thomas Hughes, 4th U. S. Infantry, with a score of 96. The largest event was the President's Match with 173 entries.

The matches were conducted by Maj. C. M. McMurray, GSC, (Inf), executive officer, Maj. I. W. Kenney, Ord. Dept., WNG, as the National Rifle Association representative and advisor, Maj. L. E. ## Citizenship Manual

(From Army Information Service, Ft. Hayes, O.)

The Training Manual on Citizenship as used heretofore by the Army (T. M. 2000-25, Nov. 30, 1928) has received much criticism in Congress. Its use as a military text book has been discontinued and it is no longer circulated according to Army orders last week. For over ten years the War Department has struggled to produce a manual, pamphlet or some reference literature which will assist army officers and others in teaching an inspiring citizenship. Army officers have tried; several educators have been employed and prominent men have been appealed to, but apparently all ends in a failure of criticism.

The army "has had no axe to grind" in its citizenship courses hoping only for the best. However, from the Army's experience in conflict with world powers, from its studies in strategy and tactics and economic trends, and from its dealings with "nature in the raw," the officers obtain a viewpoint, different perhaps, from professional educators, the latter also cannot satisfy politicians and the politicians may not satisfy the views of a boy's father and mother.

So the merry go round brings the Army back where it started. All concerned, civilians included, may express their views over again and good solutions or suggestions will be welcomed. Many will be disheartened to see the Manual discarded, young officers will be relieved as it gives them the chance to teach citizenship on their own initiative without such expert advice and restriction. The personality factor is probably the strongest in citizenship—the desire to emulate those respected. This is the most powerful influence in teaching citizenship in the Army; for Army men must be good citizens or they are soon cast aside.

Citizenship legally rests on the law of the land. Our laws also state what our country is and the rights and privileges of the citizens. A statement of those fundamentals joined with old fashioned debate, sufficiently controlled to bring out all views would be education enough in citizenship for the young men, leaving them to work the rest out. May be the Army should return to that, what do you think?

Boys come to the Citizens' Military Training Camps at 17, and to the Regular Army and National Guard at 18. Seldom are they given four hours of citizenship instruction. It has seemed fundamental with many that young men who undertake to volunteer to serve should at least know that our country has fundamental laws and that it is a mutual enterprise in which all must participate—give and take—principally the former. But there you go. Too bad we don't agree.

Post Exchange Investigation

return to conditions which older officers would like to forget.

To sum up: Your question is answered in the negative, because to give over this business to local merchants would favor a few, and increase the tax burdens of all, which is unfair from any reasonable point of view. It is geographically impracticable. The present system has been developed through the years, as best for the welfare, morals, contentment, and efficiency of the Army; it should be retained.

Very truly,
L. J. McNAIR,
Lt. Col., Field Artillery,
Acting Commandant.

FINANCE

Financial Digest

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities on Oct. 5 shows decreases for the week of $25,000,000 in loans and investments, $21,000,000 in net demand deposits and $15,000,000 in Government deposits, and an increase of $6,000,000 in borrowings from Federal reserve banks.

Loans on securities declined $12,000,000 at reporting member banks in the New York district, $10,000,000 in the Chicago district, $7,000,000 in the Boston district and $40,000,000 at all reporting member banks. "All other" loans declined $41,000,000 in the New York district and $29,000,000 at all reporting banks, and increased $7,000,000 in the San Francisco district and $6,000,000 in the Boston district.

Holdings of United States Government securities increased $27,000,000 in the New York district, $11,000,000 in the Cleveland district, $10,000,000 in the Chicago district and $43,000,000 at all reporting member banks. Holdings of other securities show relatively little net change for the week.

Borrowings of weekly reporting member banks from Federal reserve banks aggregated $107,000,000 on Oct. 5, the principal change for the week being an increase of $5,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Disarmament Conference

that a committee on effectives now meeting at Geneva, under the Bureau, has just agreed that reduction shall be based on the President's formula dividing land armies into police and defense components, the latter being subject to proportional reduction. The President, with his characteristic faculty of reducing a complex problem to its simplest terms, has pointed the way forward. What he said was 'You need a certain number of troops for internal police purposes. No one asks you to cut this number. You need other troops for defense purposes. If you now have 600,000 such troops and your neighbor has 300,000 your relative strength will be the same if you cut to 400,000 and your neighbor to 200,000. Such cuts will relieve your economic burdens, will not affect your own safety.' He has shown the way. I cannot believe that the Conference will seek another when this is so simple, clear and fair."

Provisional Naval Ensigns

cer concerned may desire to make with respect thereto.

d. In case under the provisions of the act cited above a commission is revoked because of misconduct, the officer upon discharge will not be allowed a year's pay or any part thereof.

e. Nothing in the aforesaid statutes or in these regulations in execution thereof shall be construed as precluding trial by court-martial in the case of misconduct of such nature as to warrant such action.

2a. Naval Academy graduates commissioned under the provisions of this act as ensigns of the line, whose commissions are of the same date shall take rank among themselves after the completion of the two year period in accordance with their relative standing based (1) on the report on fitness on each officer during the two year period, (2) on the result attained in the professional examinations, (3) on the final multiple attained on graduation from the Naval Academy.

b. For the purpose of determining final standing on completion of the two year periods, ensigns of the line who are graduates of the Naval Academy will be graded on a scale of 100, with weights assigned in the following proportion: report on fitness, 10; professional examination, 20; Naval Academy multiple, 70.

c. Reporting seniors will report to the Bureau of Navigation quarterly on the fitness of ensigns of the line serving under revocable commissions. These reports will be transmitted at the appropriate time by that Bureau to the Naval Examining Board for final rating, after which they will be returned to the Bureau of Navigation for file.

d. The professional examination which is to be given to ensigns of the line prior to the expiration of their two year period as such will be conducted by supervising boards, and shall embrace the following subjects: Seamanship, navigation, ordnance and gunnery, engineering, (electrical, steam, and internal combustion), military law, and navy regulations.

e. Questions for this examination will be prepared under the direction of the President, Naval Examining Board for transmittal to the Supervisory Board. On completion of examination, the papers will be forwarded for grading to the Naval Examining Board, which will prepare for the approval of the Secretary of the Navy the final list showing relative rank of such officers of the line of the same date of commission among themselves.

f. In the discretion of the Naval Examining Board, a subject satisfactorily passed in the above examination may be accepted in lieu of the same subject in the examination for promotion to lieutenant (junior grade).

4. Instructions will be separately issued with respect to the examination and grading of officers of the staff corps and marine corps serving under revocable commissions.

New Air Corps Non-Com Policy

eligible for promotion to the grade of Technical Sergeant.

b. Promotion List. Similar procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 b., substituting the words "Technical Sergeant" for the words "Master Sergeant."

c. Seniority on the promotion list. Same procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 c.

d. Method of promotion. Same procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 d.

e. Who may recommend. Same procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 e.

f. Recommendations. Similar procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 f., substituting the words "Technical Sergeant" for the words "Master Sergeant."

g. Change in designation. When such action becomes necessary to correct the distribution of First Sergeants and Technical Sergeants (second grade) in the Air Corps, the Chief of the Air Corps may effect a change in designation by appointing a First Sergeant as a Technical Sergeant. As explained in paragraph 2 a., such action will have no effect on basic eligibility for promotion to the grade of Master Sergeant.

h. Opportunity to qualify. Similar procedure as that provided in paragraph 2 g., substituting the words "Technical Sergeant" for the words "Master Sergeant."

4. Initial and subsequent promotion lists.

a. Effective date of this circular. This Circular will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1933, on which date the present eligible lists maintained in this office will be abolished.

b. Formation and application of initial eligible lists. Recommendations of all names to be placed on the initial eligible lists will be prepared by those commanding officers specified in paragraph 2 e., and forwarded to the Chief of the Air Corps in time to reach him not later than Dec. 15, 1932. In the event that no names are recommended, a negative report will be submitted. These lists will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1933, and remain in effect to include Dec. 31, 1933. In submitting recommendations for inclusion on the initial eligible lists, service to include Dec. 31, 1932, will be counted as establishing basic eligibility for promotion, referred to in paragraph 2 a. and paragraph 3 a.

c. Subsequent eligible lists. Subsequent eligible lists will be formed and will go into effect on January 1 of each calendar year, beginning with Jan. 1, 1934, and will remain in effect for the calendar year. Complete recommendations will be submitted as prescribed in the preceding paragraph and in time to reach the Chief of the Air Corps not later than December 15 of the preceding calendar year.

d. Transfers of eligibles. When an eligible is transferred to another organization, his name will remain on the eligible list in effect at the time of transfer, and will be placed by the Chief of the Air Corps on the similar eligible list which is formed for the succeeding calendar year, whether or not the new Commanding Officer so recommends. The inclusion on or omission of his name from subsequent lists will be based on the recommendation of his new commanding officer.

e. Changes in Eligible List. During the period that an eligible list is in effect, no name will be added to the list; and no name will be removed from the list except on the recommendations of the commanding officer of the enlisted man concerned, and then only for cogent reasons.

5. Rescission of former policies for promotion. This circular supersedes all previous instructions or orders of the Chief of the Air Corps relative to promotions to the grades of Master Sergeant and Technical Sergeant. Air Corps, which are in conflict therewith, effective Jan. 1, 1933.

Colonel Schley Appointed

Brig. Gen. Harry Burgess, USA, this week resigned as Governor of the Panama Canal and Lt. Col. Julian L. Schley, CE, USA, was appointed by the President to succeed him. No reason was given for General Burgess' resignation, but it was expected inasmuch as his term expires shortly and it hardly would be economical for him to return to the Canal Zone merely to serve a short time before coming back to the States.

Coast Guard Orders

Test Truck Drawn FA

The Secretary of War has directed that Battery D, 17th Field Artillery (Experimental Light Truck-Drawn Battery), accompanied by two members of the Field Artillery Board, move by motor on or about Nov. 15, 1932, from Ft. Bragg, N. C., to Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., there to conduct field service tests under winter conditions. The Battery to return to Ft. Bragg not earlier than Feb. 1, 1933.

General Staff Vacancies

The War Department issued the following statement yesterday:

"In line with the recent order of the War Department reducing the General Staff by 16, the following message with respect to the reduction has been approved:

"The present quota of the General Staff is 100. There are actually 107 on duty and thus there now exist two vacancies. The additional normal vacancies that will occur before July 1 next are 17. Replacements to be made in 1933 are 12 as follows, in the office of the Chief of Staff, one; G-1, three; G-2, four; G-3, three; G-4, one; and the War Plans Division none. The normal vacancies that will occur during 1934 are 30. Replacements to be made in 1934 are 21 as follows: Office of the Chief of Staff, four; G-1, two; G-2, six; G-3, two; G-4, three; and the War Plans division, four."

Chief of Infantry's Combat Team

The squad from Company I 3rd Infantry, Ft. Snelling, Minn., composed of the following named men, has been announced as the 3rd Infantry Squad of the Chief of Infantry's Combat Team, and is authorized to wear the prescribed sleeve patch of the team until the winning squad is announced on completion of the next year's competition:

Cpl. James P. Manning, Pvts. 1/c.: Elwood E. Turner, Joseph L. Woodbury, Walter P. Evans, Alexander C. Lonier and William R. Ezell, Pvts.: Percy C. Jarbo and Fred Hrab.

"The demonstration of proficiency by Corporal Manning's Squad is commended. Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, Chief of Infantry, wrote in a letter to the commanding officer of the 3rd Infantry, "Only through the understanding of team play, together with the ability to apply the principles of rifle marksmanship and musketry, is it possible to gain this distinction."

over a provision authorizing the United States to abandon its program of withdrawal in the event of "serious disturbances". The State Department has advised the Port au Prince authorities that such an emergency is now "entirely unforeseeable" and has added assurances that the United States "desires to withdraw its forces at the earliest practicable moment." Nicaragua, too, there has developed a question as to the date of the withdrawal of the Marines. The program heretofore laid down, however, will be carried out.

Whatever the result of the presidential election, it is evident that the House will continue to be democratic, and there is an excellent chance of like control in the Senate. In this case, Representative Rainey, of Illinois, probably will be speaker, in the advent that the democrats win the Presidential election thus moving Mr. Garner to the other end of the Capitol. Should the Republicans retain the Presidency Mr. Garner still will be available for the speakership, inasmuch as he is taking no chances and running both in the Congressional and vice presidential elections. Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, will remain as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and Representative Collins, of Mississippi, and Ayres, of Kansas, will continue as chairmen of the subcommittee on Army and Navy appropriations. In the Senate, Senator Fletcher, of Florida, is likely to be the Chairman of the Military Committee, and Senator Swanson, of Virginia, chairman of the Naval Committee. In the House, the men in control will be for reduction of the military and naval strength of the nation. In the Senate, the outlook is better, for both Fletcher and Swanson have shown themselves to be friends of National Defense. That they would resist determinedly the demands of the House is, however, doubtful. It is already apparent that in the next Congress the Services will be put to further trial.

Disappointment, I'm afraid, awaits some two or three hundred retired warrant officers and enlisted men of the Navy who have been expecting these past five months to receive a commission from the Department, promoting them to their highest war rank. Instead of receiving a sheepskin commission, which may with pride, be framed and hung in a conspicuous place, the men whom Congress decided to reward, are being sent a letter of notification. And a not very attractive letter of notification at that. On the poorest grade of Navy stationery is mimeographed the notification of the promotion, together with a warning that the new rank is not effective while on active duty, and that no increase of pay is involved. The newly promoted officer's name is typed in, with no attempt to match the ink and type with that of the rest of the letter, while the signature is not that of the Secretary of the Navy, nor even of the Assistant Secretary, but is signed by an admiral, as "Acting Secretary." Economy, it may be paid, but a rather ill-advised one, in my judgment. The War Department, I understand, is issuing regular commissions to its retired warrant officers and non-coms who held commissioned posts during the war, and furthermore, plans to carry their names in the Register with other retired officers. The Navy Department, however, I am told, does not plan to so list the officers it is now promoting.

What was it someone said, about the gratitude of Republics?

Budget Developments

The possibility of a fifteen or twenty million cut in both the Army and Navy budget estimates for next year was seen as likely this week, as the Bureau of the Budget began sharpening its shears to apply the half billion reduction in Governmental expenditures ordered by the President.

Those close to the White House are of the belief that the budgets of the departments and bureaus will bear about 150 million of the cut, while the remaining 350 million can only be taken from appropriations for relief of veterans who were not injured in war. Whether this will be done in view of political considerations, is, however, considered doubtful.

Where the reductions can come in the War and Navy budgets, is a problem. Only by seriously further weakening the national defense can even small reductions be effected, and any such cut as fifteen million dollars would paralyze the defense forces at a time when they may be needed most in the opinion of service officials.

The difference between national defense and internal Governmental affairs has been urged upon budget officials and hope is held that material reductions will not be made. The hope, however, is not a strong one.

A rumor was prevalent this week to the effect that orders had been given to slash the total budget 25 per cent, a billion dollar cut instead of a half billion one. Some attempted to explain this away by saying that the 25 per cent reduction would be made from budget after the so-called irreducible expenditures were excluded. This, in round numbers, would make the reduction about a half billion.

Meanwhile study of the recommendations of the Governmental departments as to changes in the Economy Act, and as to further possible economies went forward at the Bureau of the Budget. Senator Jones, chairman of a special Senate committee appointed to consider revision of the Economy Act and to recommend additional savings, wrote to the heads of the various departments, asking their views on the committee's problem.

At the direction of the President, the recommendations of the departments were sent to the Bureau of the Budget and instead of each secretary replying to Senator Jones, one report will be made for all by the Bureau of the Budget.

The War and Navy Department recommendations, it is understood, urged repeal of the inequitable "pay freeze," and requested that the ban on using accumulated leave be lifted. No stand, it is said, was taken on the question of the payless furlough.
